TUGWELL FACES SENATE CRITICS AT HEARING AND EXPOUNDS VIEWS

"Brain Trust" Says He Does Not Believe in Changing the Constitution Except by Orderly Process.

THINKS MILK SHOULD BE PUBLIC UTILITY

Spectators Howl and Cheer,
Drowning Out Orating
Members of Wrangling Committee — "Public Circus," One Remarks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Rexford Guy Tugwell, No. 1 "brain trust" in the "Little Cabinet," faced some of his critics in the Senate Agriculture Committee today for questioning in general on his politico-economic theories and in particular on his qualifications for promotion to be Undersecretary of Agriculture at $10,000 a year from Assistant Secretary at $7,500.

In the course of his examination Tugwell said he believed in the American Constitution and that it should be altered only by orderly processes to meet the exigencies of changing economic conditions.

The chief opponent to his promotion was the chairman of the committee, Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, who has based his objection on the ground that a "dirt farmer" should have the post.

The hearing today resulted from a fight on the Senate floor last week. Senator Robinson (Rep.), the Democratic leader, charged the committee with smothering the nomination by failure to report it. Chairman Smith denied this. Under a motion made by Robinson the committee was required to report the nomination one way or another by noon tomorrow.

Clashes, Cheers, Disorder.

The examination of Tugwell gave rise to dissension in the committee and disorder in the room. Chairman Smith and Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, led the questioning.

The biggest crowd at any Senate hearing of the year, largely composed of women, packed the room. Citing the controversial bill to amend the Farm Act, Byrd said Tugwell had misled the committee by saying they were merely "clarifying."

One of the amendments, he declared, would let the department say how many chickens could be raised. He asked if that was not an "enormous increase" in present AAA powers.

Tugwell said he had looked up the word "clarifying" and it meant to "make clear and free from obscurity." "That is what the amendments are intended to do," he asserted.

Remarks by Byrd led Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, to maintain that the investigation was being run as "a political racket." He characterized Byrd's criticism of the AAA amendment bill as a "stump speech" and called for an orderly hearing.

"Hurrah for Byrd!" had greeted Byrd as he concluded. "Tugwell!" yelled another spectator. Wheeler demanded that the demonstrators be thrown out. Order was restored by Chairman Smith.

Tugwell's Farm Background.

Tugwell told of his birth "in Sinclairville, N. Y., a small town of about 700 people," and said his grandfather was a cattle raiser and his father followed in his footsteps. Tugwell said he went away to school in Philadelphia until he was 18 and during the long summer vacations he went home to Western New York and "managed" the farm.

"What kind of a farm was it?" Smith asked. "It was a fruit farm," Tugwell replied.

250 SPEND NIGHT ABOARD DISABLED BOAT IN MISSISSIPPI

"City of St. Louis" Towed to Dock—Steering Gear Out of Commission.

Two hundred and fifty passengers on the excursion steamer "City of St. Louis" unexpectedly spent the night on the Mississippi River opposite Jefferson Barracks after the boat's steering gear became disabled late yesterday.

The steamer, due at its dock at the foot of Mand street at 11 o'clock last night, was returning from what was to have been a 14-hour round trip to Chester, Ill. Although it is thought the rudder hit some obstruction, breaking its controlling cables, details of the accident were not known by employees of the St. Louis ticket office.

The "Cape Girardeau" of the Eagle Packet Line left for the scene of the accident this morning and started towing the "City of St. Louis" upstream. The boats reached the dock at noon.

Edward Koenig, owner, was aboard the steamer when it left the dock at 9:30 a. m. yesterday and remained aboard throughout the trip.

The passengers, of various ages, were reported to be enjoying their prolonged excursion. The boat was well stocked with food and a seven-piece orchestra was aboard. Yesterday's accident is the first the boat has suffered. It formerly was the "Erastus Wells," owned by the City and used as a harbor boat. Koenig bought it and rebuilt it for use as an excursion steamer.

HITLER AIDES AS MAIL TO ATTEND HARVARD REUNION

E. F. S. Hanfstaengl on Way to New York—Bound for Europe.

COLOGNE, Germany, June 11.—Ernst F. Sedgwick Hanfstaengl is on his way today by train and airplane to the liner Europa, bound for New York and the twenty-fifth anniversary reunion of the Harvard class of 1909.

He left Cologne riding among the mail sacks on the airplane, which he would go to the United States for the Europe and the Bremen.

Hitler's trusted lieutenant, whose desire to attend his Harvard University class reunion has had various repercussions, decided yesterday that he would go to the United States. He caught the mail-express train from Berlin to Cologne, arriving just in time to board the mail plane.

His baggage is said to include a bag of French wine, a bottle of the United States Military Academy, a bottle of West Point; a bust of Arthur Schopenhauer, philosopher, for the Harvard philosophical department, and a bust of his favorite composer, Gluck, for the Harvard Music School's golden chapel.

ROOSEVELT LIKELY TO SIGN NEW TARIFF BILL TODAY

27 Foreign Nations Already Await Chance to Negotiate

WASHINGTON, June 11.—President Roosevelt expected to sign today the tariff bargaining bill, designed to give new impetus to foreign trade.

The bill would give him power to negotiate reciprocal trade treaties without Senate approval, increasing or decreasing tariff rates by as much as 50 per cent.

The administration hopes to increase American foreign trade through the bill.

Already 27 foreign nations are awaiting an opportunity to negotiate whenever the new measure becomes law.

DEFENSE SPARS FOR MORE TIME IN KELLEY CASE

In Place of Promised Motion for Change of Venue, Verne Lacy Asks
Judge to Disqualify Himself.

THIS WOULD PREPARE FOR ANOTHER DELAY

County Prosecutor Objects to Dilatory Tactics — Four Defendants in Court at Clayton.

Still sparring for time, the defense in the Kelley kidnapping case continued its dilatory courtroom skirmishing today before Circuit Judge McElhinney, with the four defendants seated at the counsel table, three of them under guard of deputy sheriffs, the fourth at liberty on $25,000 bond.

When the defense obtained a postponement of the trial Saturday, Attorney Verne Lacy promised the Court that today, when the trial was originally scheduled to begin, he would file a motion for a change of venue to another court.

However, he began proceedings this morning by asking the Court for leave to file a motion that Judge McElhinney disqualify himself for trial of the case, on the ground of prejudice.

While the motion, if granted, would necessitate removal to another courtroom, it would still leave the defense another string to its bow, the privilege of asking a change of venue to a third court, if not satisfied with the second. Should the defense, on the other hand, get a change of venue from Judge McElhinney, it could not get another.

Court Orders Recess.

Lacy's request was opposed by the State, and finally, after some back-and-forth between him and Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, Judge McElhinney ordered a recess until the afternoon session.

Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, wife of Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, was the defendant not in court when the hearing began this morning. After a bailiff had called her three times, and Prosecutor Anderson had demanded forfeiture of her $25,000 bond, Lacy stepped forward and told the Court that her absence was chargeable to him, that he had advised her she need not be present.

He said she could be in Clayton within a few minutes, and a recess was declared to allow her time to come to the courtroom from her home at 4738 Westminster place.

The courtroom was crowded when she arrived with her husband at 10:55 and took her seat beside him, in front of the other four defendants, Felix McDonald, Jefferson City convict, and Bart Davis and Angelo Rosegrant, who have been held in the County Jail since their arrest last February.

Mrs. Muench wore a white silk summer dress, Panama hat, quarter-length white gloves and white shoes. Rosegrant, pale from his long stay in jail out of reach of sunlight, wore a white linen suit. Davis was dressed in blue and McDonald, as immaculately attired as his co-defendants, also wore a dark suit.

Lawyer Facing Trial Himself.

The burly Rosegrant exhibited an air of self-conscious boredom, the other defendants were impassive as they watched the proceedings, leading to their trial on charge of kidnapping Dr. Isaac D. Kelley for ransom, on April 20, 1931.

Lacy, who is tentatively scheduled to go to trial next Monday in St. Louis on an indictment charging corruption of a juror in the Alexander Berg kidnapping case, began the proceedings by asking leave to file the disqualification motion. Judge McElhinney inspected his request for leave to file the motion, then said:

"This is nothing more or less than an application for a change of venue. The application for leave to file is denied. I shall have no objection, however, to considering such a motion if put in the proper form."

The defense then took a recess and Lacy, counsel for McDonald, Mrs. Muench and Davis, went into conference with Thomas J. Rowe Jr., Rosegrant's lawyer, and Robert M. Zeppenfeld and Walter Wehrle, of counsel for Mrs. Muench.

Lacy Resubmits Request.

After half hour Lacy returned to Court, told Judge McElhinney he had decided to submit the same request again and read it into the record. A copy was furnished the State and a recess was declared until the afternoon session.

2000 REPORTED DEAD IN STORM AT SAN SALVADOR

Army Flyers Find Hurricane, Landslides and Floods Wiped Out Whole Villages.

SENT OUT TO MAKE SURVEY OF DAMAGE

President Orders Grain
Tariffs Lifted in Relief Decree — Forbids Rise in Food Prices.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, June 11 (Via Pan-American Airways wireless).—Relief workers today estimated 2000 persons were dead in the vicinity of San Salvador alone following last week's hurricane and rainstorm. Air Corps planes sent up yesterday to survey the country reported death and destruction everywhere.

L. C. Calloway, Pan-American Airways airport manager, went along as an observer and made an unofficial report of his findings. He said the planes dropped messages to all communities where life was still observed, asking them to report to the capital immediately the extent of casualties and loss.

He saw evidence that whole towns had been destroyed by landslides started down the sides of volcanoes as a result of the rains. In the Lempa River he saw the funnel of a river boat sticking out of the water and bodies floating around it.

Coastal Villages Destroyed.

The coast from La Libertad to La Unión was worst hit. Villages there were nearly wiped out. The President of the Republic has issued a decree that prices on foodstuffs must remain the same as before the disaster. He abolished import duties on wheat, rice and other staples for the next three months in order that the people of El Salvador may be fed at as low a cost as possible.

Electric power was restored here over the week-end. The capital is receiving drinking water only two hours daily. Work of burying the dead is being carried on as fast as the Army can get rescue workers into the stricken settlements.

Thus far, only the locality around the capital can be reported on with any exactness.

Twenty-five inches of rain fell in 24 hours.

Train Washed Down Mountain.

Lakes Guila and Coatepeque have risen far over their banks and swept away houses around their shores.

Airplane observed flying over the International Railroad of Central America, which has been washed out in many long sections, saw the International train lying upside down several hundred feet from where the mountain track had been.

Nearly all crops in El Salvador were reported to have been destroyed.

The main fear at the present time is that the destruction of sanitation facilities and the presence of many unburied bodies may cause a pestilence.

In order to provide as much emergency transportation by truck and airplane as possible, the Government has confiscated all the gasoline in the capital.

Many Lives Reported Lost in Floods

By the Associated Press.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 11.—Many lives were reported lost today when heavy rainstorms flooded the Uru River which has risen 34 feet above normal and spread out over lowlands. Government authorities ordered out canoes to rescue marooned survivors.

FIRST GENERAL RAIN IN STATE SINCE MAY 14

Fall of From Half Inch to Two Inches of Some Benefit to Truck Gardens.

Drouth conditions in St. Louis and St. Louis County were alleviated by general showers during the past 48 hours, rainfall varying from half an inch to two inches.

Additional rainfall may occur this afternoon and during the night with fair and cooler weather forecast for tomorrow, Roscoe Nunn, meteorologist at the St. Louis office of the United States Weather Bureau, says.

Examination of reports from 25 observation stations throughout Missouri indicates that showers were general, Nunn said, with especially heavy rains in the north, west, central and southeastern portions of the State.

Rainfall in St. Louis proper totaled half an inch, while it varied in the county. About two inches fell at Valley Park and three inches at Union, Franklin County.

The showers, the first general ones since May 14, were especially helpful to truck gardens and forage crops, but came too late to benefit most of the wheat and oat crops.

A rise has been noted in the Mississippi River, which should cause a rise of at least a foot in the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

Estimating the damage by drouth in St. Louis County at more than $700,000, Russell Lander, Assistant County Farm Agent, said the showers of the last 48 hours might save some of the late crops, such as sweet potatoes, corn and beans. Early tomatoes would be benefited also, he said, and the second alfalfa harvest.

TWO HURT AS PLANE FALLS INTO LAKE IN ARGENTINA

Pan-American Ship Crashes on Flight From Buenos Aires to Chile.

JUNIN, Buenos Aires Province, Argentina, June 11.—The Pan-American Grace Airways plane, San Pedro, carrying 36 passengers and a crew of four, crashed today in Marchiquita Lake near here. First reports said two of its occupants were injured.

The San Pedro was piloted by Charles E. Lindenberg. It took off from Buenos Aires at 8:15 a. m. today for Santiago, Chile, and encountered a dense fog. It was believed the pilot attempted an emergency landing, but plunged into the lake because of lack of visibility.

The police sent a detachment to the lake, which is 25 miles from here and about 200 miles west of Buenos Aires.

Two North Americans were passengers. They are H. G. Yeager Jr. and Joseph Colonna. Pilot Lindenberg is an American.

CITY OF NEW YORK SUPPLIES MILK TO POOR AT CUT PRICE

Board of Health Declares Emergency and Sells at Eight Cents a Quart.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The City of New York went into the milk business today with the announcement by the Board of Health:

"The purchasing power of a very large number of persons in this city has been reduced to a point where the inability to purchase milk at prevailing prices has led to malnutrition of adults as well as of infants and school children, which malnutrition is a menace to the public health of this city."

The board declared an emergency and said that it "deems it necessary and proper for the preservation of life and health in the City of New York to provide for the distribution of milk in said city to such persons."

Ten thousand quarts of grade B milk were put on sale at 53 baby health stations at 5 cents a quart—5 cents under the regular price. The daily quantity will be increased as rapidly as arrangements can be made. Each purchaser was limited to two quarts today, due to the small quantity available, and the board asked that only persons actually in need apply for milk at the 8-cent price.

12,000 MORE PACKING HOUSE WORKERS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Bologna Makers and Truckmen
Join Butchers and Meatcutters in Walkout.

NEW YORK, June 11.—A strike of packing house employees extended today to include 12,000 more employees. About 8000 butchers and meatcutters struck a week ago. The workers ordered out today include Bologna makers and truckmen.

The action was voted by the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butcher Workmen's Union of America yesterday.

The strikers seek a 20 per cent wage increase, recognition of the union, enforcement of the collective bargaining provision of the National Industrial Recovery Act and reinstatement of workers discharged for union activity.

Leaders said the strike was aimed mainly at the "Big Four" packers—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co. and Cudahy.

NORTHWEST-MOUNTED POLICE BARRED FROM SELLING HORSES

naires' Convention in Oregon Put Under Bond.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11.—Sixteen members of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police were under order today not to do any horse trading while attending a convention here of Canadian Legionnaires from British Columbia. A special train carrying British Columbia visitors to the convention was held up at the border yesterday while the policemen arranged $150 bond each to make certain they did not sell their horses in the United States.

The convention of Canadian Legionnaires is the first ever held outside the British empire.

STATE SENATOR THAYER RESIGNS SEAT UNDER FIRE

Quits Before Colleagues
Act on Fitness to Hold Office Because of Relations With Utility.

By the Associated Press.

MALONE, N. Y., June 11.—State Senator Warren T. Thayer, Republican, representing Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, today resigned his seat, eight days before his colleagues were to vote upon his fitness to retain office because of relations with a public utility.

Gov. Lehman issued a formal call last night for a special session of the New York State Senate, Tuesday, June 19, to determine whether Thayer should be ousted.

The Senator was investigated at his own request as a result of implications in letters he wrote to the Associated Gas & Electric Co. in 1922 and 1923, while he was chairman of the Senate Public Service Committee.

In one of the letters Thayer expressed the hope that his work had been "satisfactory to your company." He admitted writing the letters, but contended during hearings before the Judiciary Committee that there was nothing in them to constitute official misconduct.

MADRID, June 11.—Turning a machine gun on a group of youthful picnickers returning home along a Madrid street, gunmen last night killed a small boy and wounded three girls.

The children were quietly walking along Cardinal Cisneros street when an automobile parked at a corner suddenly backed up, nearly running them down. They protested. The driver of the car then drove away while its occupants fired on the children.

FOUR PASSENGERS, CREW OF THREE

Latter Group Included Two Pilots and Stewardess — Ship Going From Newark to Chicago at Time of the Crash.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., June 11.—The American Airlines plane, missing with seven occupants since Saturday night, was reported sighted this afternoon near Livingston Manor, N. Y. Planes sent out by the airline to check reports made by a private flyer reported back here by radio.

Earl Ward, general superintendent of the line, said pilots in the ships had radioed that the plane, partly burned, was buried in the underbrush in the side of a mountain.

Theodore Schmidt, division manager here, told reporters that the plane had not yet been reached by ground searching parties but that the description as radioed to Newark left "no doubt" that it was the lost 15-passenger twin-motored Conquest. The wreckage, according to Schmidt, showed the same number of motors and the same shaped fuselage.

Plans to Fly to Scene.

Ward ordered his single motored Bellanca plane, in which he rushed here from Washington Saturday night to direct the search, to be warmed up and prepared to take off for either Hancock or Liberty.

Ward said the plane was found, "as near as we can figure, near a place called Mongaup Park."

Many of the 23 ships which the line had out on the search for early this morning were ordered into the Livingston Manor area after a pilot named Hallock reported to Ward that he had seen the plane, which had been unreported since Saturday evening as it passed over Newburgh, N. Y., on its flight to Buffalo and Chicago.

Another Report of Plane.

Meantime, C. B. Ward, proprietor of the De Bruce Club which state troopers are using as a base of operations, near De Bruce, N. Y., said that the plane had been sighted, burned, three miles southeast of Mongaup Pond. He reported that the wrecked ship was seen from an observation plane lying in a clump of woods just across the Ulster County line.

The plane was inaccessible, Ward said, making it necessary for the troopers to proceed on foot four or five miles. A group of troopers left for the scene at noon, and Ward estimated that it would require two or three hours for the trip.

The radio reports from searching planes said that the blue color of the fuselage was easily distinguishable and that some of the markings, including parts of the lettering, were also discernible. The reports said that one of the orange-wings was apparently intact while the other had either been sheared off as the plane crashed into the woods or was hidden by the foliage of the trees. Parts of the plane appeared blackened, which led officials to believe that it had caught fire.

The spot where the plane was reported down is in one of the least populous counties of New York State, some 100 miles from New York. Sullivan County, which borders Ulster on the West, has an area of 967 square miles and a population of a little more than 30,000. Its county, like that of Ulster, is made rugged by spurs of the Western Catskill Mountains. It is in the Southeastern part of the State, bordering on Pennsylvania. The crash occurred some 30 miles from the

STEEL UNION CHIEF DOUBTS JOHNSON'S PLAN IS FEASIBLE

M. F. Tighe Sees 'Little or No Merit' in Proposed Three-Man Board to Settle Disputes.

SUGGESTION LIKE THAT TO AUTO MEN

Labor Leader's Stand Taken as Concession to 'Rank and File' Group That Threatens Strike.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 11.—Michael F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, said today "there is little or no merit" in the Government's proposal for a special three-man board to settle disputes in the steel industry.

The union leader, who has called a convention for June 14 in Pittsburgh to decide whether a strike should be called, said his objection to the plan was partly based on the impracticability of finding men who would have no interest in the steel industry to serve as members of the board.

"In the judgment of the men themselves there is no one who could represent them or protect their interest as well as men who are working at it, who know working conditions, what the men go through and who would be fair enough to judge between right and wrong," said Tighe.

"Even if three judges are appointed, it would be practically impossible to find a judge who didn't own at least one share of steel stock, or who didn't have an interest in the industry."

The board of three was suggested to the union leaders by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator, in Washington, last week. His suggestion was for a board of three members, one representing the companies, one representing the union, and one representing the Government.

The plan is similar to the one the Government adopted to forestall a strike in the automobile industry.

Tighe, who has been president of the Amalgamated for 15 years, said "In this age when there are so many ramifications in industry, commercial and financial worlds, it is practically impossible to find a man absolutely impartial to the steel industry."

"Before they could judge on the questions submitted to them they would have to have knowledge of the working conditions of the men."

Concession to "Rank and File." Tighe's statement was regarded as partly healing the breach between the international officers of Amalgamated and the self-styled "rank and file" leaders who forced through a "sign or strike" ultimatum to the steel companies at the last convention of the union.

The "rank and file" group demanded formal recognition of the Amalgamated as the collective bargaining agency for the steel workers. June 10 was set as the deadline for answers from the industry, but steel manufacturers before that made it plain that they will not grant recognition.

Heretofore, although he made no formal statement on the plan, Tighe was thought to favor the mediation board plan. It had been denounced by the "rank and file" leaders, including William J. Spang of Duquesne, Pa., and Earl J. Forbeck of McKeesport, Pa.

Tighe has maintained since the start that it is "up to the workers themselves" to decide whether a strike would be called and the question is expected to be settled at the June 14 meeting, which will be attended by 200 delegates representing a membership of 100,000, according to union claims. This is one-fourth the number of workers in the nation's steel mills.

Company Union Survey. Meanwhile, steel leaders announced that a survey among about 60,000 workers disclosed 90 per cent of them were in favor of the company-employees representation, or so-called "company union," plan of collective bargaining. The figures were given as the early results of balloting now under way by the employees. Operators say the balloting so far indicates less than 10 per cent show a preference for representation by the amalgamated or "any other outside agency."

The direct question—to strike or not to strike—was involved at two mills of the Weirton Steel Co. Officials of the employees' representation plan said that two—the plants at Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O.—voted 10,261 to 460 against a strike.

Tighe Deplores Bickering. Tighe said Gen. Johnson might come to Pittsburgh to present personally a plan to avert the strike. He said the amalgamated had the "full sympathy in every move" of the American Federation of Labor Unions.

"Such things have no place in such a grave and serious consideration," he said. "There is too much responsibility resting on both sides for interference in language."

rupted. "We have asked leave to file certain motions which have since been filed," Anderson began. "You are delaying the case needlessly," Anderson rejoined. "We have the right," said Lacy. "To take such dilatory action as seems indicated, and to file such dilatory motions as may be needed."

"At that rate," Anderson began. "There's the old clairvoyant talking again," Lacy broke in. "Knowing you as I do," Anderson said, "I am perfectly able to see what you are trying to do."

Taking of depositions by the defense is set for today, but it is understood the depositions will be put off at least until tomorrow. By that time Judge McElhinney is expected to have assigned the case to another court in Clayton for trial, and it is also possible the trial will have been definitely set by the second judge.

McDonald was brought to Clayton by Sheriff Deuser and Deputies Willmann and Newbold, who, in addition to their pistols, were equipped with a riot gun and two submachine guns. They described the motor trip from the capital as uneventful, and added that McDonald had little to say. They did not question him about the Kelley case.

How Delay Was Obtained. As told yesterday, Lacy obtained postponement of the trial set for today by announcing that four defendants intended to go to trial together, hence all must sign the application for change of venue. It followed, Lacy argued, that McDonald must be on hand to sign the application with the other three. Under this new alignment of circumstances Judge McElhinney announced he would receive the application today. It will be the province of the judge to whom the case is reassigned to set it for trial.

A. M. A. HEAD URGES DOCTORS TO STAY OFF WITNESS STAND

CLEVELAND, June 11.—Dean Lewis, M. D., retiring president of the American Medical Association, which opened its eighty-fifth annual five-day meeting here today, in a speech to the House of Delegates, June 14 meeting, which will be attended by 200 delegates representing a membership of 100,000, according to union claims. This is one-fourth the number of workers in the nation's steel mills.

"The medical profession," he said, "requires the good will and respect of the people. I know of nothing which makes people more suspicious of those engaged in the practice of medicine than the expert witness."

"Lay people must think that medicine does not even approach an exact science, when two men of equal distinction in medicine will give diametrically opposite statements to questions which are asked at a trial."

CHILDREN HURT IN ATTACK ON MADRID GERMAN SCHOOL

MADRID, June 11.—Police today disclosed that several children were hurt yesterday in a German gymnasium school here, when Communists and Socialists stormed the institution. About 150 children were receiving graduation prizes.

A Swastika flag was flying over the school. Several score Communists and Socialists, carrying red banners and shouting, "Down with Hitler!" rushed the school and struck several of the children. The German Ambassador arrived and some of the flying stones struck his automobile. He went through the attackers, picked up three of the most severely wounded children and took them to the German Hospital in his car.

In the meantime, police arrived, dispersed the attackers and arrested three persons. About a dozen children, ranging from 7 to 10 years old, were slightly injured. The three children taken to the hospital were treated for severe bruises and cuts caused by flying glass and stones. The majority were treated at their homes.

Arms Parley Adjourned: Security Committee Named. President Henderson Declares Government Must Get Germany Back to Geneva.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, June 11.—After appointing a committee to study European security pacts, the disarmament conference adjourned today with a warning from its president that the governments must get Germany back to the parley.

Arthur Henderson, the president, declared that the conference failed in private negotiations, the conference committee itself would step in and take action.

The European committee was created with the understanding that it could be enlarged to include countries in other continents after Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, had insisted that regional mutual assistance pacts might be extended to other parts of the world.

The delegations were far from unanimous in their attitudes toward the security committee, of which Nicholas Politis of Greece was chairman.

PASSES BANK INSURANCE BILL. House Approves Extension of Temporary Plan to July 1, 1935.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A compromise bill postponing permanent bank deposit insurance until July 1, 1935, was accepted today by the House. Senate approval will send the measure to the President for his signature.

The measure carries a rider empowering, but not directing, the Reconstruction Corporation to purchase or make loans on assets of banks closed between Dec. 31, 1929, and Jan. 1, 1934. Assets would be appraised "in anticipation of orderly liquidation over a period of years rather than on the basis of forced selling values in a period of business depression." The bill also increases amounts under temporary deposit insurance, beginning July 1, 1934, from the present $2500 to $5000.

Tugwell Faces Senate Critics at Hearing

been looked upon as having a public interest," Tugwell said. "You differentiated, of course, between the manner in which milk is produced and water is produced?" Smith said. "Yes sir," Tugwell replied. He said production of milk did not need to be controlled to be treated as a public utility.

Dressed in white linen, Tugwell was accompanied by a large staff of department assistants. Tugwell said he spent a year at the University of Pennsylvania, then went to teach at the University of Washington, thence to France, and then back to Pennsylvania.

After that he taught at Columbia, spending about seven or eight months out of the year there and the rest at managing the farm in Western New York.

Functions of Proposed Job. "What do you think are the functions of an Undersecretary?" Smith asked. "I haven't yet made up my mind," Tugwell said, "but I don't think it is very different from my present position."

He pointed out he was not consulted on creating the position and did not know he was to be nominated.

He said other departments not as busy had four or five assistants whereas the Agriculture Department had only Secretary Wallace and his staff.

Chairman Smith then explained he had taken the position that maintenance of agriculture was different from all other occupations, "because of the impossibility of reducing it to a science."

"An Embarrassing Question." "You can't plan for any kind of crop each year because you can't control nature, but that practical experience in this uncontrollable condition demands one who really has had a varied experience in farming," Smith said. "I want to ask, 'if you feel you have had sufficient experience to qualify you for one who is to formulate the policies for agriculture?'"

"That is rather embarrassing," Tugwell replied. "It would probably take a super-man to do it exactly right."

His experience, he said, had been confined to fruit, dairy and wheat farming, as he had little experience with the South or West. He added he had studied the problems of the South and West as best he could and had been studying and writing about agriculture since 1925.

"Perhaps that is not what you mean, however," he remarked to Smith.

"My no," the chairman replied. "We have had fortunes worked out on paper overnight, but they don't work out in practical experience."

Byrd Takes Up Questioning. Smith then turned his chair over to Byrd, who had been sitting back with a handful of papers, apparently Tugwell's speeches, in his hand.

Byrd started by saying he was "much concerned over your attitude on the fundamental principles of government. I do not question your sincerity but there are some things I as a Senator, cannot compromise on."

He then read a sentence from a speech by Tugwell before the American Economic Association in 1931, which said: "Chance has substituted itself for the anthropomorphic sequence of human existence."

"Frankly, I can't understand it," Byrd said.

Tugwell launched into a long explanation. He said the speech was intended to be a "technical discussion of planning," and "by anthropomorphic I meant the interpretation of history we give it when we look back."

"That's just about as clear as the original sentence."

"I'm sorry," said Tugwell. Explaining his 1931 speech, Tugwell said: "We were then in the midst of the debate on the Federal Government was not doing nearly enough to meet the situation. State governments were unable to act, except in a modified way, and I felt the Federal Government should do more. It has since done it."

"I was asked to make the speech by the American Economic Association and was glad to do it, because planning was being talked about in a loose way by people who didn't understand it."

"If you noticed it, I spoke immediately after Henry H. Harriman, now president of the United States Chamber of Commerce."

"If planned economy was to be carried out it would suit me better to do the things I talked about then."

"I believe in the American Constitution," he said.

Changes in Constitution. "If planned economy were carried out, what changes would you favor?" asked Byrd. "You ask that in such a way that I can't answer it," Tugwell replied.

When Byrd began to insist, Senator Murphy (Dem., Iowa), interrupted with: "The witness ought to be permitted to answer in his own way."

Byrd said "all right—with the permission of the Senator, I'll ask another question." But before he could, Tugwell said he believed in the Constitution, and regarded it as "flexible enough to do what we believe necessary to meet exigencies."

Intervened. "I don't know," said Tugwell. "I've been hoping we would never adopt planned economy in that way."

He went on to say he believed in the kind of planning "the President is talking about," but not the kind he (Tugwell) mentioned in the 1931 speech, which could best be illustrated by Russia.

Senator Wheeler interrupted to say "If this great concentration of wealth continues, the people are going to demand regulation by bureau, and if they fail, the people will demand Government ownership of large business interests."

"I can understand that," Tugwell said.

Byrd asked Tugwell if he had anything to do with governmental policies outside the Agriculture Department. Tugwell said "No." However, he added he was sometimes consulted by officials of other departments.

"You still have ideas as a citizen?" Norris asked. "I hope so, and I hope I am not required to give them up," Tugwell said.

"It has been charged," Tugwell testified, "that we have been usurping powers by inserting provisions in trade agreements. These charges are being made by lawyers. He then explained the courts had upheld the AAA in the California fruit case and the Chicago milk decision and three other cases that had arisen."

Byrd said some of the things the AAA "are doing may be beneficial but I hold you shouldn't do anything the law doesn't authorize you to do." "I agree with you," Tugwell replied. "The courts in five cases have held we have been acting under the law."

Byrd provoked a warm argument among members of the committee when he said Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had branded all opponents of the AAA bill as "obstructionists."

Norris and Wheeler objected. Wheeler saying Wallace had simply said a "group was organizing in Chicago for the purpose of obstructing."

Byrd assailed AAA Amendments. Byrd said the amendments to the farm law, though described as "clarifying," would "enormously increase" the Government's power and "Wallace will be a Hitler of Agriculture who can tell every producer what he can grow and sell."

Byrd launched into a long speech reviewing the AAA bill section by section. He said that under the Secretary of Agriculture could tell any farmer who accepted a $50 benefit what he could raise, "even down to his chickens and turkeys," and "if any one claims that is only a clarifying amendment then I can't understand the English language."

Other provisions he regarded as smacking of dictatorship counter to the Constitution were those to provide the Secretary's actions could not be reviewed by the courts, giving him access to books of producers and processors and the power of injunction. He said the Secretary could employ "100,000 agents to police the farmers."

"Congress should have frankness," he declared in climax. At this point Wheeler made his address in protest.

When Chairman Smith also had given his views at length, Wheeler asked: "Have we a radio in this hearing?"

This started another row. Wheeler suggested that if there was a radio in the room, it should be taken out. "It's been taken out so your speech was last," Smith retorted.

"It (Smith's speech) was merely an attack on the administration," put in Senator Murphy.

Smith jumped to his feet. "I resent that," he shouted. "It was unworthy of the Senator. Who are you to throw aspersions on my democracy?"

Smith on "Free-born Americans." As the crowd roared, Smith declared that "free-born Americans have a right to express themselves here or elsewhere. There isn't a man or woman entitled to be an American citizen who entertains such disgraceful ideas."

"Let's go ahead," Wheeler interjected.

"No," Smith shouted, "not with these dirty insinuations in which there is no truth. No, by God, you won't!"

The crowd howled, cheered and applauded.

Murphy tried to explain he had made his remark because of a criticism of the administration's monetary policy by Smith.

"Let's settle this now," Smith said. "The thing I want to scotch is the principle that you are not to express yourself unless it is in accordance with some higher-up. Thank God all Americans—"

At this point Smith's words, though shouted, were lost in the noise of the crowd.

"When we took the Crown off King George—," Smith started again, but his words were smothered again by tumult.

"You are getting along pretty well," Wheeler told Smith. "You've got a good audience."

"I'm getting along a darn sight better than you thought I would," Smith said testily and sat down to the accompaniment of more cheering. Murphy muttered an aside: "This is an entertainment."

"That's the trouble, when you have one of these public circles," observed Bankhead.

As Byrd gave up the chair, Morris told him, "You have made a wonderful stump speech. It has nothing to do with the Tugwell nomination. I hope you make it again in the Senate."

"I intend to," Byrd rejoined. Senator Bailey (Rep., North Carolina), then took up the questioning, returning to Tugwell's 1931 address. He attempted to show that Tugwell stated his own opinions as well as those of others. Tugwell agreed that some of the sentences expressed his own beliefs.

"Do you consider the NRA makes industry Government, and Government industry?" Bailey inquired. "Yes, in the sense that I meant it in the speech," Tugwell replied. "Government functions are performed in the code authorities and industry performs government by its acceptance of NRA."

Tugwell added there was no one in America more opposed than himself to the Russian planning system. The speech, he said, was merely a technical argument, and he did not mean that he advocated that kind of planning.

Bailey read another excerpt from Tugwell's 1931 speech.

"As I have explained twice before," said Tugwell, planning means about what's being done under the Russian system."

His speech, he said again, was a skeptical argument about things being put forward by the Chamber of Commerce and others.

"Why can't my word be accepted about what I was saying in the speech?" he asked. "I have said over and over again that I don't believe in planning in the sense used here."

My speech in 1931 was long before I came into politics, before I met President Roosevelt, before I had any responsibility, and if I may say so, before I was confirmed as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture."

Bailey replied there was "no reason" why his word could not be accepted and "we're not raising questions about your veracity."

For Voluntary Co-operation. "I believe in proceeding on a voluntary basis," Tugwell said, "but I do believe, too, that the Government should make it possible for the people to co-operate."

Tugwell's chief, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, came in at the point and had difficulty finding a seat.

"I believe in the AAA, and you don't," Tugwell was telling Bailey. "I believe in economic democracy, as well as political democracy."

"Do you regard NRA as voluntary?" Bailey asked. "Would you advocate the kind of economic planning you spoke of in 1931 if 15 per cent of the people wanted it?"

"I would prefer to base an opinion on 90 or 95 per cent," Tugwell said. "If 95 per cent of the people wanted to do something, I'm for it. I'm a Democrat."

"Is that sound Americanism?" "Oh, yes; I'm a Democrat. Anything 95 per cent of the people want I'm for."

"Even to the point of adopting the Russian system?" "Anything in America, for the minority," passed Bailey. "In politics, when a man is elected by 51 per cent of the people, there is no minority represented whatever."

"Do you think I'm responsible only to the people who voted for me?"

Byrd, who first interrupted, said Bloom, "I am informed that the mail division of the NRA is cranked down on a congressional law to Representative law (Rep.) of Maine. Bloom by chance was amid the labyrinthine huge Commerce Building."

In a sharply-worded Bloom, Johnson began. "I am informed that the mail division of the NRA is cranked down on a congressional law to Representative law (Rep.) of Maine. Bloom by chance was amid the labyrinthine huge Commerce Building."

SOL BLOOM LOST IN Government Building.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator, has "cracked down" on Representative Sol Bloom (Dem.) of New York and started something which may end in a congressional row.

The General also laid down the law to Representative Carroll Beedy (Rep.) of Maine, who was with Bloom by chance when they got lost amid the labyrinth of corridors in the huge Commerce Department Building.

In a sharply worded letter to Bloom, Johnson began:

"I am informed that you entered the mail division of NRA Saturday and proceeded, noisily, to reprimand various employees for permitting 'smoking-idling' threatening to make a speech about it in Congress to wipe out the whole of the NRA."

Johnson then said:

"After saying that he permitted smoking and praising the patriotism of his employees for working long hours in the NRA, Johnson concluded his letter to Bloom:

"This administration has the strictest orders to show to all Congressmen the respect due their rank and responsibility, and you were shown both, but I regard your action in the matter as disrespectful to me and unwarranted. It is not your business to discipline or reprimand an executive organization. If you have any complaint to make about employees here, the place to make it is to me, and my door is always open to Congressmen."

Bloom, who first wrote the letter as a joke, is now so indignant that he temporarily lost his suave manner.

"The letter is a lie, and anyway, it is Gen. Johnson's fault for not discouraging me," Bloom wrote.

"Gen. Johnson has, every time I ever heard him—in public or in private—insulted someone."

Bloom's Story of Affair.

Here is Bloom's story:

"I was in the Commerce Building—where even guides get lost—to consult the export division of the Commerce Department. An information clerk sent him to a certain room. It was a room filled with clerks, and, unknown to Bloom, was the mail division of NRA.

"I found no one working—but everyone smoking and talking," Bloom said. "They didn't know I was a member of Congress. I tried to find out where I was and how to get where I wanted to go."

"They didn't know anything and I got insolent replies. About that time Representative Beedy came in. He was misdirected to the same room. We stood there looking at those people—smoking and talking—and getting madder and madder because we couldn't get a civil answer."

Finally I said, 'Unless I can get some intelligent answer I'm going to make a speech and blow the whole thing out of the water.' I got action. I was directed to a lady who was courteous, but who couldn't tell me where I wanted to go. I finally had to call Secretary Roper's office."

Denies He Was Noisy.

"I wasn't noisy and I didn't want the courtesy shown a Congressman—I wanted the courtesy that ought to be shown every taxpayer. And if those employees were patriotic as Gen. Johnson says, heaven help the country."

"The attitude of the employees was typical of the NRA—insolent. The air was full of cigarette smoke and no work was being done."

Bloom corroborated Bloom's story and is ready to go to the mat with Johnson.

20 BOMBINGS REPORTED IN ALABAMA MINE STRIKE

Sleeping Employees of Steel Firm Fired on From Ambush.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 11.—

Gunfire and twenty bombings caused the injury of one person and endangered many others during the week-end in the strike-hardened Alabama mine fields.

After intermittent dynamite explosions, a volley of shots was poured into the sleeping quarters of ten employees of the Republic Steel Corporation mine at Rainsford late last night by terrorists firing from ambush.

The workers returned the fire and the attacking party withdrew as a detail of National Guardsmen was hurried to the scene from the Tuscaloosa area.

Hardy, commanding officer, said none of the workers was injured. His detail could not determine if any of the attackers were wounded.

Yesterday a Negro employee of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., was seriously injured by a dynamite bomb that tore the front porch off a house. D. G. Burns, foreman for the Republic Steel Corporation and his family, including two small children, escaped injury from another charge of dynamite that blew the porch off his home.

BROTHERS DROWN, ONE IN TRYING TO RESCUE OTHER

Roland Buffington, 9, Unable to Swim, Drags Down Robert, 14, Who Goes to His Aid.

Two Alton boys, Robert Lee Buffington, 14 years old, and his brother,
Roland, 9, were drowned in the Mississippi River near the Alton waterworks yesterday when the younger boy stepped into deep water and his brother attempted to rescue him.

The brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Buffington, 1260 West
Ninth street, Alton, went to a sand-bar near the waterworks pumping station with a neighbor, Harold Gaffney, 14, who, forbidden to enter water, waited on the bank while the others waded into the river.

Suddenly Roland, who was unable to swim, cried out and disappeared, Harold said, apparently having stepped into a hole. His brother swam to his aid, reaching him as his head appeared above water.

Gaffney saw Roland clutch Robert around the neck and heard the older brother say, "Let go and I'll pull you out." Then both boys, struggling, were carried downstream by the current and finally sank.

Robert was a student at Roosevelt Junior High School and Roland was a pupil at Delmar Grade School.
They are survived also by an uncle, and three sisters.

The bodies had not been recovered this morning.

Client Accuses Bondsmen of Taking Her Automobile

Warrant Issued Against Edward McGarry on Complaint of Oklahoma City Woman.

A warrant charging larceny of an automobile was issued today against Edward McGarry, 43 years old, contractor and professional bondsman, on complaint of Miss Katherine M.
Briscoe, a stenographer of Oklahoma City, Ok.

Miss Briscoe said she and a man companion were arrested last May 15 while seated in her automobile at Ninth and Chestnut streets and taken to jail when the police found a revolver on the man.

McGarry came to her in jail, Miss Briscoe said, and offered to sign bond for her. She said she had money on deposit in Oklahoma City but none with her. He signed the bond, drove her to Oklahoma City and back in his automobile, and collected $200 for his services.

McGarry suggested, she said, that if she gave her car as surety, he would get the man out on bond. She declined to do this but she says her car was taken by McGarry and she has since been unable to get it back. McGarry admitted that he has the car, detectives said. No charges were ever filed against Miss Briscoe or the man.

Workers Appear to Ignore
Strike at Cartridge Firm

Pickets Remain on Duty at Plant at East Alton as Employees Return.

Pickets remained on duty today at the plant of the Western Cartridge Co. in East Alton, but virtually all employees appeared to ignore the strike which was called Friday night by the Federal Labor Union
No. 19,051.

The company reported all departments fully manned, with 96.2 per cent of its workers on the job. The average daily attendance the week before the strike was called, the company said, was 94.3 per cent.

The union is demanding recognition and reinstatement of employees it charges were dismissed for union activity. There are about 2700 employees, of whom 1800 are eligible for membership in the union.

William B. Newton, until recently president of the local union, was arrested in the picket line last night on a warrant charging him with the robbery of a school janitor at Bethalto, Ill., last fall. Byrne Smith of East Alton, named with Newton in the warrant, was also arrested.

Pilot, Stewardess on Missing Plane

BURNED WRECKAGE OF MISSING PLANE SIGHTED FROM AIR

Delaware River and 50 miles from the Hudson River.

At Livingston Manor it was reported that the wrecked plane was found by W. H. ("Ted") Hallock of Washingtonville, a pilot, and Lee Lord of Rock Hill. Hallock joined the party of troopers, headed by Sergeant Mangin, for the tedious trip to the isolated region where he sighted the liner. From Pioneria, Deputy Sheriff H. C. Segelken heads a party which undertook to push into the mountains to the scene of the crash.

The plane, when it left Newark
Saturday on the way to Buffalo and Chicago, carried Clyde Holbrook, 38 years old, of Chicago, pilot; John Baron Jr., 33, of Chicago, co-pilot, and Miss Margaret Huckleby, 28, of Chicago, stewardess, comprising the crew, and the following passengers:
Harry H. Pinsky of New York and
W. B. Bader, W. A. Cass and H. C.
Coppins, all of Buffalo.

A large fleet of planes had been engaged in the search yesterday and today, circling a wide area over the Catskill Mountains and checking many reports that had been related to the office here of the American Airlines.

With Holbrook, a World War ace, at the controls, the plane left Newark at 4 p. m. Saturday.

At 4:35 p. m. he radioed the Newark Airport "everything O. K."

He gave his position as 20 miles northwest of Newburgh, N. Y.
Syracuse was to be the first stop.

Pilot Holbrook Formerly on Run Between St. Louis and Chicago.

Before assignment to the Chicago-New York route, Pilot Holbrook flew between St. Louis and Chicago for about three years, leaving here last fall to go on duty on his new run.

Accounted one of the best pilots in the company's service, he had more than 7000 flying hours to his credit.

FORMER HEAD OF MAIL BRANCH IS SENTENCED

D. F. Monahan Gets Year and ay for Opening City Hall Letters.

David F. Monahan, former superintendent of the City Hall Postoffice, today was sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Reformatory at El Reno, Ok., on his plea of guilty of opening mail passing through his office.

Monahan was arrested last September and subsequently indicted on three counts of rifling the mails.
A postal employee 34 years and eligible for retirement on a pension of $100 a month, he has been dismissed from the service.

Dewey Godfrey, chairman of the Democratic City Central Committee, appeared as Monahan's attorney and pleaded with Federal Judge
Davis for probation for his client.
Godfrey said Monahan opened letters on which the address was obscure for the purpose of expediting delivery and on one occasion placed his initials on a letter he opened.

The attorney stressed the point that the letters contained nothing of value and pointed to Monahan's previous good record in the postal service. In closing his plea, Godfrey said Monahan is without funds, has a sick wife and a son, who is just starting a legal career.

Judge Davis said he was not disposed to grant a parole and refused to give a 30-day stay of execution.
The Court said, however, that if the District Attorney confirmed Godfrey's statement that Monahan opened mail only for the purpose of directing letters to the proper parties, he would consider a parole.
Assistant District Attorney Statler previously informed the Court that the defendant confessed to opening letters because of "political curiosity."

Monahan, who was in charge of the City Hall Postoffice for 12 years, resides at 4870 Chouteau avenue.

death. Hicks was found with a pis-

QUADRUPLETS, 3 GIRLS AND BOY, BORN IN IOWA

$16-a-Week Father Says 'You Can Bet Your Life I'm Proud About It.'

By the Associated Press.

SAC CITY, Ia., June 11.—Mrs. L. R. Wycoff, already the mother of five, gave birth to quadruplets, a boy and three girls, Saturday. Lawrence Wycoff, the father, works for the State Highway Commission for $16 a week. "I don't know what to think about it," he said, "but you can bet your life I'm proud about it."

Mrs. Wycoff was proud, too, but said she was "very sorry" for her children, because "they won't have the privileges they should." She said she did not believe in large families.

The babies all have the same initials—L. D. W. Their names and weights: Lester Dean, 4 1/2 pounds; Lavonne Danene, 4 pounds; Lavonne Danene, 3 1/2 pounds; and Lorraine Delaine, 2 1/2 pounds.

The four were attended by a trained nurse and Dr. G. H. Swearingen, who delivered them. They are being fed corn syrup and milk administered to the two sturdiest with medicine droppers and to the other pair through tubes. The doctor reported the appetites normal. Incubators will not be used. Dr.

Swearingen was said not to "believe in" incubator methods.

All's Well With Dionne Quintuplets, Doctor Reports.

By the Associated Press.

CORBEIL, Ontario, June 11.—All was well today with the Dionne quintuplets, according to their physician, Dr. A. R. Dafeo.

Yvonne, the heaviest of the five, although she weighs only 40 1/2 ounces, showed improvement, and previous alarm over her condition was largely dissipated. Yvonne had seemed weaker yesterday.

Olivia Dionne, French-Canadian farmer, and his 24-year-old wife visited their children yesterday, peering at them through germ-catching masks, through the glass tops of the five incubators. Only the five nurses are allowed to handle the infants. Everybody was encouraged by the fact that the children collectively gained 4 1/2 ounces over the week-end and now weigh a total of 10 pounds 11 1/2 ounces. Emilie, the 20th ounce, was the only one who lost weight, and she lost only 1/4 ounce. Marie, the smallest and weakest, is improving steadily, and now weighs 28 ounces. Cecile, whose condition is good, tips the scales at 34 ounces, a gain of 2 1/2 ounces. Leon Dionne, uncle of the quintuplets, who speaks English fluently, stood outside of the gate on which "no admission" signs have been posted and directed visitors to a signboard on which Dr. Dafeo posts daily bulletins on the children's weights.

Hundreds of visitors were turned away from the Dionne home yesterday. Leon Dionne, uncle of the quintuplets, who speaks English fluently, stood outside of the gate on which "no admission" signs have been posted and directed visitors to a signboard on which Dr. Dafeo posts daily bulletins on the children's weights.

Olivia Dionne, French-Canadian farmer, and his 24-year-old wife visited their children yesterday, peering at them through germ-killing masks, through the glass tops of the five incubators. Only the five nurses are allowed to handle the infants. Everybody was encouraged by the fact that the children collectively gained 4 1/4 ounces over the week-end and now weigh a total of 10 pounds 11 1/2 ounces.

Emilie, 39 1/2 ounces, was the only one who lost weight, and she lost only 1/4 ounce. Marie, the smallest and weakest, is improving steadily, and now weighs 28 ounces. Cecile, whose condition is good, tips the scales at 34 ounces, a gain of 2 1/2, while Annette picked up an ounce and now weighs 38 1/2.

Hundreds of visitors were turned away from the Dionne home yesterday. Leon Dionne, uncle of the quintuplets, who speaks English fluently, stood outside of the gate on which "no admission" signs have been posted and directed visitors to a signboard on which Dr. Dafeo posts daily bulletins on the children's weights.

The parents of the quintuplets kept out of sight.

RECOGNITION BY LITTLE ENTENTE PLEASES RUSSIA

Action by Rumania and Czechoslovakia Is Expected to Be Followed by Yugo-Slavia.

CONSIDERED AID TO PEACE ON DANUBE

Germany, However, Remains Dubious Over France's Part in New Treaty With Soviet State

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 11.—Recognition of the Soviet Government by Rumania and Czechoslovakia, and the certainty that recognition will be extended soon by Yugo-Slavia, were hailed with great enthusiasm yesterday by the Russian public and the Moscow press.

The new understanding with the Little Entente, established at Geneva yesterday, was regarded as a triumph for the peace policy of Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Commissioner for Foreign Affairs. It was pronounced a stabilizing influence in the troubled European situation.

The Pravda said that recognition is of special significance at this time "when the Danube is being converted into a military area."

"The raging race of armaments in all imperialist countries shows that war clouds have lowered not only over the Far East, but also over Europe," the Pravda continued. "On this background the recognition in Geneva means an additional link in the long chain of measures for peace guarantees created by the Soviet Union."

Establishment of diplomatic relations between Russia and two nations of the Little Entente "is a blow for a group of adventurers which is opposing guarantees of safety and is still organizing military plots," the Pravda concludes.

The Izvestia said that recognition by the Little Entente strengthens guarantees of peace in the non-aggression pacts into which the Russian Government has entered with many nations and proves the Soviet Union "is the greatest factor in maintaining peace in the world."

German Suspect Maneuver by France in Agreement.

BERLIN, June 11.—Recognition of Soviet Russia by the Little Entente Powers is regarded by the German press to be an accomplished fact, although Yugo-Slavia's formal assent is being withheld pending the return of Foreign Minister Yevitch to Belgrade from Paris.

Formal conclusion of the recognition agreement has been set for a meeting of the Little Entente at Bucharest June 18 to 20, and the expectation that Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, will be in Bucharest at that time is interpreted by some German observers as a revelation of "France's anti-German machinations."

It is expected that a declaration of solidarity between France and the Little Entente will be one of the accomplishments of the Bucharest meeting.

German papers agree a new chapter in relations between Soviet Russia and the Powers of South-eastern Europe has been opened. It

Soviet Russia's "Air-Train" in Flight

TOWED by a plane (center background) three gliders made the 800-mile flight from Moscow to Koktebel in the Crimea. The gliders were picked off the ground while the plane was in the air.

is expected the next step probably will be conclusion of a commercial agreement between the Little Entente and Moscow, one of the purposes being to minimize the effect of Soviet dumping of lumber and cereals in the Entente nations. Non-aggression and mutual assistance pacts are said to be in the background.

GIRL SHOT BY JEALOUS SUITOR TO LEAVE HOSPITAL TONIGHT

Miss Kathryn McDavid, Hillsboro, Reported Completely Recovered From Wounds.

Miss Kathryn McDavid, who was shot in the thigh and head by her rejected suitor, Russell Perry, on May 29, has completely recovered and will return to her home in Hillsboro, Ill., tonight, her physician, Dr. Roland Klemme, said yesterday. She has been in Barnes Hospital.

The shooting took place two miles east of Litchfield, Ill. Perry had been following Miss McDavid's automobile in another car, and crowded her into a bridge railing and forced her to stop. After a quarrel he shot her, then killed himself.

Perry was a former Washington University and University of Illinois student. Miss McDavid's father, Edward T. McDavid, is one of the owners of the Montgomery Loan and Trust Co., in Hillsboro. She is a graduate of Lindenwood College and the University of Indiana.

LEGIONNAIRES 'BETRAYED' CANDIDATE TELLS CONVENTION

J. J. Shy, Seeking Senatorial Nomination, Addresses Ninth District Gathering.

A charge that American Legionnaires have been "betrayed by Government leaders and the metropolitan press" was made by Joseph J. Shy, Legion state rehabilitation chairman and candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, at the fifteenth annual convention of the Legion's Ninth Missouri District at St. Charles yesterday.

He declared that of a recent appropriation to restore Federal employees' salary cuts and increase veterans' allowances, $315,000,000 went to the employees and only $30,000,000 to the veterans.

About 10,000 visitors came to St. Charles for the convention, a feature of which was a two-mile long parade.

$3,500,000 MORE FOR WHEAT GROWERS

Result of Increasing Federal Benefit Payments From Eight Cents to Nine.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Increase in the second wheat benefit payments from eight cents, as originally planned, to nine cents per bushel, and plans to rush these payments, totaling more than $3,500,000, to farmers in the next few weeks, are among drought relief steps announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The largest part of the wheat payments will go to farmers in the drought states. Since these payments are based on past production averages and are not affected by current crop failure, they serve as far income insurance and farmers are assured some cash even if drought destroys their crop. The increase of one cent per bushel on the domestic allotment will mean nearly $3,500,000 more for farms.

Assurance of Income.

In time of drought like the present, these payments give the farmers a continuity of income otherwise impossible, and are a safeguard against the depopulation and destruction of productive power which otherwise would be threatened by drought, Chester C. Davis, Administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, explained. Similar protection is afforded co-operating corn and hog growers who will get about $160,000,000 in payments this summer no matter what happens to their crop, and to cotton and tobacco contract signers, making the adjustment program as a whole the greatest crop income insurance plan ever put into effect anywhere.

The second payment of nine cents per bushel is the one from which local costs of administering the wheat program are deductible. Estimates of processing tax collections are sufficient to cover the enlarged second wheat payment. George E. Farrell, chief of the wheat section, has been working on speeding up the wheat plan to get the payments out. Co-operating farmers in 40 States are participating in the wheat benefit payments.

The railroad rate adjustments are important in relation to both phases of the program of maintaining sufficient numbers of foundation stock of dairy and beef cattle so as to preserve the livestock and dairy industries in the drought regions.

The lower rates are authorized on shipments of this foundation livestock to available grazing areas, and also on shipments of feed concentrates and hay into the drought regions to feed the stock.

Some Restrictions Lifted.

Farm Administration officials in explaining recent regulations on use of acres on farms under Government contract in and out of the drought area said that farmers might plant any amount of fodder corn and grains sorghums or other fodder crops on land not rented to the Government.

The only restriction now left on use of Government rented acres is the one applying to planting of corn and grains sorghums on Government rented acres.

Previous restrictions on the total amount of fodder to be planted by farmers signing wheat-corn-hog and tobacco contracts were lifted by the Government in order to give farmers full opportunity to grow livestock feed when conditions become favorable.

Stirred by pleas for aid and a report from the College of Agriculture that crops in the State are generally the poorest in 60 years, Missouri representatives visited the Department of Agriculture Saturday to request that parts of the State be declared in need of emergency drought relief.

Bank in Ocala Is Reopened.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GOLCONDA, Ill., June 11.—The First National Bank here has reopened for business on an unrestricted basis after a month's shutdown. Two-thirds of the deposits held before the bank closed have been placed to the credit of the depositors. Capital stock of the bank is listed at $50,000, with a surplus of $10,000.

FILLING STATION STRIKERS BACK ON COMPANIES' TERMS

Accept Status of New Employees on Advice of Head of Labor Policy Board.

The dispute between union filling station attendants and eight major oil companies was terminated today when the strikers returned to work on the companies' terms.

The men voted Thursday night to call off the strike, but several hundred continued to picket major company stations Friday and Saturday because of the insistence by employers that strikers must accept the status of new employees. Dr. W. M. Lelerson, chairman of the Petroleum Labor Policy Board, recommended that the men accept the companies' terms. The strikers Saturday evening voted to do so.

The strike was called June 2 in an effort to enforce demands for increased wages and paid vacations. The companies, in a published offer to the strikers, promised to guarantee existing wages of $90, $95 and $110 a month for a year.

Police, who had been on 12-hour duty guarding filling stations, returned to normal eight-hour shifts this morning.

EX-KAISER SAYS HITLER GIVES NEW SOUL TO GERMANS

Randolph Churchill Quotes Wilhelm as Declaring Nazi Has Done "Marvelous Work."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 11.—Randolph Churchill, son of Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, quotes the former Kaiser, in an interview in the Daily Mail, as saying to him:

"Hitler has done marvelous work in putting new life and soul into the German nation. If ever the Germans felt it right that his endeavors should be crowned by a return to a constitutional monarchy, I am sure that my family would not fail in its duty."

Wilhelm, the interviewer said, expressed contempt of "the talking circus at Geneva" and said the League of Nations "does nothing but bring international co-operation into ridicule."

"The trouble with Europe today is that there are plenty of politiclans but few statesmen," he said. Although Wilhelm, now 75 years old, did not say he was looking for reinstatement, himself, he was quoted as saying: "The German people have turned me out. If they want me back they will have to come and fetch me."

Young Churchill said he found the ex-Kaiser gay, mentally alert, gracious and amiable.

Wilhelm's conversation covered a wide range of subjects. He spoke with horrified amazement at "folly" of attempting to restore prices by destroying goods.

"A large acreage of wheat has been deliberately destroyed in Argentina and elsewhere," he said. "Coffee has been taken to sea and sunk in Brazil. And now drought threatens all of us with famine."

He was much impressed by the increasing power of Japan. "Japan," he said, "is as capable of giving peace and order in China as the British were of giving them in India. It is useless to think that growth of Japanese power in China can be prevented. Moreover, Japan constitutes in the East a bulwark against Bolshevism as strong as Germany provides in the West."

He is still proud of his reign as Kaiser. He declared many things in his rule were "distorted through the inevitable bitterness of the war years."

"Those days before the war," he said, "were the golden age of Germany. Under a constitutional monarchy the German people enjoyed full democracy and a freedom of speech and press which rarely has been rivaled in any other country. Those who accuse me of being a hard-fisted autocrat might remember the significant fact that in half a century the German Empire did not produce one single political martyr.

"Today democracy seems to be on the wane. Sterner measures appear to be necessary everywhere to Bolshevism."

PIG SHOW SEPTEMBER 13-14

The standard for litters was established at five pigs. Vocational students must have owned their projects May 1 to be eligible to enter them in the show.

EIGHTH CENTURY COINS FOUND

Relics of Ancient Civilization of Iraq Unearthed.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Gold coins apparently minted by the Seljuk rulers of Iraq about 1150 A. D. were among the first findings of an archeological expedition excavating at Rayy, site of ancient Rhages, in Persia, it is announced at the University of Pennsylvania museum.

The expedition has also unearthed copper coins bearing dates from the eighth to the thirteenth centuries. The coins are thought to have been buried in anticipation of the arrival of the Mongols who destroyed Rayy in 1220.

"Do women smokers realize what Old Gold's throat-ease means?"

asks

Barbara Stanwyck

[OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1933]

Dear Miss Stanwyck:—

The fact that Old Gold is easy on the throat is important to every smoker . . . man or woman. It means that one may smoke Old Golds from sunup to sundown, without throat discomfort.

But Old Gold's smoothness has an additional appeal to women. The absence of artificial flavoring in Old Gold not only makes it a smoother smoke . . . but a cleaner smoke . . . less apt to stain the teeth or to leave objectionable odor in the clothes or on the breath.

We do not say that Old Gold is the only good cigarette for the fastidious woman smoker. But we do say there is no purer or finer cigarette made.

Sincerely,

P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—The net of it is this, Miss Stanwyck: No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

WOULD PAY COST OF SAVING HOME OF EUGENE FIELD

J. P. Henry and C. P. Daniel Offer to Bear Expense of Preventing Damage to It.

A formal offer to pay the expense of preserving the childhood home of Eugene Field, the children's poet, 634 South Broadway, has been submitted to the Board of Education by Jesse P. Henry and Carl P. Daniel, partners in the insurance business, who are interested in having the place perpetuated as a memorial.

Wrecking of the house adjoining to the north is under way, and it is apparent that prompt action will have to be taken to avoid endangering the Field home, which is about 89 years old. Daniel and Henry, in a letter sent to the board by Henry today, urged that their offer receive immediate attention. The board will meet tomorrow night. Richard Murphy, chairman of the Finance Committee, told the Post-Dispatch he would recommend at that time action to preserve the Field home. He said he would have Building Commissioner Friton examine the house today to determine what work was needed. Order to Wreck Home Rescinded. The board has been willing to have the house preserved, but has not desired to spend money on it. Last February it authorized a sublease, Curran, printer, to wreck the Field house and adjoining houses, not realizing the poet's home was involved. When attention was called to this, the board rescinded its action.

A bronze tablet on the wall says Field was born in No. 634 in 1860. There is doubt that he was born there, but it is certain he resided there for five years, beginning in infancy. It was the second house in an unbroken row of 12 simple brick dwellings on the east side of Broadway, extending north from Cerre Street. The Board of Education owns 62 front feet, north from Cerre Street, including No. 636, at the corner; the Field home, and about two-thirds of the frontage of No. 632, north of the Field home. Curran owns the remainder of the property to the north and holds the board's lot under an assignment of an old lease, which will expire next April.

Henry's Appeal. Curran had proposed to raze all the houses, with the idea of erecting a freight terminal. He has wrecked nine of the dwellings, on his own land, and has started wrecking No. 632. Henry wrote to the Board of Education that he and Daniel understood the wrecking would extend to the north wall of the Field house. He continued:

"We are informed that the preservation of the Field house in order to prevent the possibility of collapse, calls for certain engineering supervision at the time the wrecking of the adjacent building nears the partition wall, and furthermore would call for the preservation of this wall and certain general repairs in order to preserve the Field house."

"The purpose of this letter is to offer to stand the expense of the required supervision and all expense which we find necessary to prevent any collapse and to preserve the building. The Woermann Construction Co. have been kind enough to make an inspection of the building and have offered to supervise the wrecking insofar as it would effect the collapse of the building. We do not offer at this time to renovate or otherwise improve the inside of the building as we feel this question will take care of itself at the proper time. The problem now is to save the building and this offer is for that purpose only."

"Few Landmarks Preserved." "St. Louis, although a city with a very interesting historical background, has preserved very few of its landmarks of the past and the preservation of our old buildings which have a bearing on the history of St. Louis and its illustrious citizens of former days we feel should be seen to as a foregone conclusion. It is always future generations who regret the passing of old landmarks. Very few of us seem to realize their importance when the time comes to prevent their demolition, and it is only years later that the people voice their regret."

"We are satisfied that the Board of Education fully appreciates the cultural influence of Eugene Field, and that the city takes pride in the fact that he was a St. Louisan. We are confident that of all civic bodies the Board of Education, representing as it does, the backbone of education and culture of this city, is deeply interested in the preservation of this building."

Henry said immediate preservation would call for tuckpointing, waterproofing, repair or replacement of the roof and some painting, as well as supervision. The cost has not been estimated. He said no consideration had been given to the possibility of razing the corner house, No. 632. Some persons have suggested the use of the Field house as a museum.

Suggests Filling Station Memorial. Frank J. Schramm, real estate agent for Curran, said the wrecking of No. 632 would be carried as far as the boundary of the board's property. There is no present intention to build on Curran's lot, but the structures were wrecked to save taxes, he added. Schramm suggested to the board recently that the remainder of Curran's lease might be canceled. Nothing has been done about this. To-day Schramm suggested that Daniel and Henry might want to take over the lease. "I can't see why we couldn't put up a fancy filling station there and call it the Eugene Field Memorial, instead of that lousy old building that has stood there for over 85 years," said Schramm. Superintendent of Instruction Gerling, who has been instructed by the board's committee on instruction to take any necessary steps to preserve the Field house, has consulted Secretary-Treasurer Roe and Attorney Carter on the subject. He has taken an active interest in making the place a memorial. President Todd of the board has suggested that civic interests should join in paying the cost of putting the house in condition.

WORKERS' UNIONS WILL SUE MILWAUKEE LIGHT COMPANY

NRA to Be Asked to Remove Blue Eagles by Injunction Proceedings.

MILWAUKEE, June 11.—Joseph A. Padway, attorney for the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, Saturday night announced that unions whose members are employed by the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co. will ask the National Recovery Administration to start injunctive court action against the utility, which has refused to surrender its blue eagle. A civil suit in Federal Court under Section 9C of the NRA will be demanded, Padway said. The planned suit is the reaction of organized labor to the defiance of the utility toward the order of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, who demanded that the company give up its eagle for failure to comply with the mandates of the National Labor Board tribunal hearing the cases of seven discharged and one transferred employees.

5 STABBED TO DEATH WITH PIECE OF SAW

Four of Victims Members of One Family at Susanville, Cal. — Suspect Held.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SUSANVILLE, Cal., June 11.—The bodies of five persons, including a family of four, were found stabbed here today.

The dead: Joseph Fazio, 45 years old, grocery proprietor; his wife, Maria, 43; John, a son, 25; Sarah, a daughter, 22; Lena Ammisseani, 48.

The bodies of the father, wife and son were found in the Fazio home. The bodies of the daughter and Miss Ammisseani were found near mill pond, a short distance from the home.

Sheriff Leavitt arrested Pietro Aloisi, 43 years old, when neighbors reported that Aloisi and Fazio had quarreled violently recently concerning Aloisi's attentions to Fazio's daughter, Sarah.

The cries of Miss Ammisseani were heard by a motorist, Orin Hass, as he passed the mill pond on a narrow dirt road. Hass saw the woman on the bank of the pond. "Stabbed, stabbed," she gasped. Hass drove into town and returned with deputy sheriffs and a doctor. Miss Ammisseani was dead when they returned. Her body, stabbed 16 times, had been removed from the bank of the pond, thrown into a ditch and covered with brush. A short distance away the body of Sarah Fazio was found. She had been stabbed 20 times. The stabbing had been done with a part of a planing mill saw.

Brentwood PWA Loan Increased. A PWA loan and grant for a new school in Brentwood was increased today from $60,700 to $62,800. The increase was made because bids were higher than the earlier estimate of cost.

Three Get Death for Holdup Murder

THE Millen brothers, Murton and Irving, and Abe Faber, were convicted of killing a policeman in a Needham (Mass.) bank robbery. After an eight-week trial a jury found them guilty in five hours. A crowd gathered around the Dedham court-house, cheered the verdict and booed the prisoners as they were led from court.

FERGUSON MAN GETS ANTARCTIC LETTER

Paul Swan, Formerly at Airport, Tells of Life at Little America.

A letter expressing the season's greetings, and briefly describing the rigors of life in the Antarctic, which was mailed by a member of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition Jan. 31, from Little America, has just been delivered to Frank L. Beach of 140 North Clay avenue, Ferguson.

The writer of the letter, Paul Swan, formerly lived in Ferguson, and was employed as an airplane inspector for the Curtiss-Wright Co. at Lambert-St. Louis Airport. Swan, 26 years old, got the opportunity to join the Byrd Expedition while making an inspection of a special Condor airplane built here for the expedition.

Harold June, one of Byrd's pilots, checking over the plane with Swan, recognized the valuable knowledge Swan possessed, and recommended to his commander that he be taken along. Swan is now in Little America, ready to inspect the big plane when the weather clears, and the trips over the pole begin.

The letter was written shortly after the Byrd party began making preparations for the long winter at Little America. Swan writes: "This is probably our busiest port, since it is an enormous job unloading the ship, getting the planes ready, and preparing the camp for the winter night—which will soon be upon us."

"Our animal, fish and bird life down here consists of hundreds of penguins and seals, whales of the killer and humpback varieties, stormy and snowy petrels. . . . The Condor is performing wonderfully well under the worst of conditions—it has had to take a terrific beating from the weather throughout the trip, but is standing the gaff fine."

On one face of the letter is a picture of a penguin family on an ice floe, with the words, "The season's greetings from Little America."

Neiger, Assistant State's Attorney, who has had charge of the case against the former State Superintendent of Printing. Williamson and Miss Nelle Machin, his secretary, are on trial on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the State. Their attorney, A. M. Fitzgerald, indicated that the defense would challenge every move in the trial.

RAIDERS FIND UNTAXED LIQUOR Tavern Owner With 32 Beer License Held on Federal Charge.

Joseph Bonmarito, owner of a tavern at 1416 North Jefferson avenue, was arrested there early yesterday when police and Federal agents reported finding a quantity of whisky in a locked closet. Bonmarito's license was for 32 beer. He was held for Federal authorities, booked for possession of whisky on which no tax had been paid.

OIL STATION MAN FOUND SLAIN, APPARENT VICTIM OF ROBBERS

Body of Attendant, Missing Since Thursday, Discovered in Field at St. Joseph, Mo.

By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 11.—Lloyd Hulse, 31-year-old filling station attendant, missing since early Thursday morning, was found dead yesterday in a wheat field gully 100 yards north from the station where he was night man.

Bruises on his head, evidently made by blows strong enough to cause injury to the brain, and other bruises on the right cheek bone and right side, inclined police to the theory that Hulse was clubbed to death for the station's receipts of the night, about $30. Hulse apparently was carried to the gully after being beaten elsewhere.

Automobile Club Membership Increases 35% Since 1929

Today, 19,000 car owners say
THIS INVESTMENT of 25¢ A WEEK
is the best they ever made

THRIFT has become the guardsman of every purse string. Car owners will not buy what they do not need.

Yet more and more Missouri car owners are realizing the need for the services, protections and privileges obtainable only with a membership in the Automobile Club.

Strict economizing—the depression-formed habit of judging values closely and with inquiring scrutiny—has brought home to 5,000 additional car owners the conviction that “it pays to belong.”

14,000 members in 1929... more than 19,000 today.

A lower gasoline tax than any adjoining state. And the Automobile Club led the fight for a constitutional law which prohibits until 1936 any increase in gasoline tax or license fees.

The Automobile Club of Missouri is a non-profit organization. Since 1902, it has devoted its efforts and resources entirely to the service and protection of Missouri motorists.

Not a single child killed or seriously injured by motor traffic where Automobile Club Schoolboy Patrols have been on duty.

If you do not yet belong, may we explain why a membership is the only way to enjoy the full benefit of owning a car. May we tell you why, at a cost of less than 25 cents a week, your membership is a greater bargain than any automobile service, equipment or convenience that you can buy anywhere else today.

This is the time—during the summer months when you are making the greatest use of your car—that an Automobile Club membership will mean most to you. This is the time when the value of your membership is confirmed immediately after joining.

Phone your nearest Automobile Club of Missouri office for complete details of Auto Club services—without obligation.

More than 150,000 orders a year from members for Automobile Club travel aids and touring service.

SCHOOLS TO HELP 'FORGOTTEN YOUTH'

Harrisburg Chosen as Site for New Movement in Educational Field.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Ill., June 11.—Plans are being perfected that will include "forgotten youth" in the benefits of the New Deal here. It will take the form of an opportunity school, where unemployed young people may go for occupational training three days a week and be paid for it.

Details are in charge of Dr. Theodore B. Manny, senior agriculture economist of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics. According to Dr. Manny, student workers will be taught trades and receive instruction in world affairs. The purpose, in addition to directly benefiting the needy boys and girls is to discourage their drifting about the country.

In April a school was opened as an experiment in an anonymous Southern county. It soon spread to other communities. This month surveys are to get under way in

ROOSEVELT SEEKS TO REDUCE COSTS OF CONSTRUCTION

Has Had Committee Working Secretly for Weeks on Plan to Stimulate Building.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building, WASHINGTON, June 11.—President Roosevelt has appointed a committee consisting of Joseph B. Eastman, Federal Co-ordinator of Transportation; W. Averell Harriman, Deputy Administrator of the NRA; and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to draft a cost-cutting program planned to attract a tremendous volume of building in an effort to provide jobs for a large number of the unemployed, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

The committee has been consulting with experts in drawing up plans for reducing building costs for both renovating and new construction providing for a greatly increased volume of construction.

The inauguration of the program is dependent on the passage by Congress at this session of the administration's housing bill, which, it is expected, will be reported in the Senate early this week.

The administration is supporting the bill, and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins has already been selected by the President to manage the housing campaign, which will be inaugurated when and if it passes Congress.

Working Plan for Weeks.

The purpose of the appointment of the special committee, which has been working for weeks without its existence having been revealed, is to revive the construction industry, whose business has been stagnating for lack of volume, by selling them the idea of a widespread price reduction program which is intended to insure them the needed volume of business by lowering selling prices for their materials.

With this in mind, the committee and their experts are working toward a general overhauling of the whole building-cost setup, which would include a reduction in the price of the business men involved, but decrease the unit costs of materials.

The group is also understood to be considering a reduction in the hourly wages paid to employees in the industry in anticipation of greatly increased employment, which they believe will more than offset the loss the workers would sustain from the reduction in hourly wages.

Housing officials explain that while hourly wages in the construction industry at the present time are high, the number of hours workers are now employed is so small that it would be to their advantage to take a lower hourly wage, if they could be assured of a substantial increase in the number of hours worked in the building trades.

Details of the Program.

If the administration's plans go through, the housing program will include:

1. Increased profits for wholesalers, retailers and other dealers in construction materials and related products.
2. A larger and more regular wage return for labor, brought about through increasing the number of hours worked by cutting the rate per hour in the building trades.
3. Cutting the cost to the consumer of the materials that go into the construction and renovation of a house by making it worth while to sell at lower prices in greater volume.
4. A larger income and use of idle equipment by the railroads through the medium of attracting the moving of freight by lowering rates.

A Howl Is Expected.

The administration experts who are working on the program recognize the difficulties to be encountered in making it effective and realize also that a terrific howl is likely to go up when it is announced. That is one reason, it is stated, why the President has designated Hopkins to put the idea across with the country.

Hopkins, who, as director of the CWA program, put 4,000,000 people to work in record time.

In describing the situation in the construction industry one official said: "Take the building trades. The work of builders is so seasonal and irregular that it is absolutely necessary that they be paid a high wage per hour in order to get, from the comparatively few hours they work, enough to live on through the year."

"What is the result of that? The man who builds a home has to pay so much for labor of the building tradesman that the price of building rises to a point where, under present financial conditions, in many cases, he cannot build at all. Which simply reduces the number of jobs, makes it necessary to hike hourly wages more and continues the vicious circle."

Hope for Stabilization.

"I dare say that any building trades worker would prefer to have a steady job at reasonably high wages than no job or an occasional job at theoretically higher wages. That is the condition in the country today. If this building program goes across, we hope to stabilize employment in the building trades much as the seasonal curves had been stabilized in the garment trades and should be stabilized in the automobile industry."

ZINC COMPANY TOLD TO QUIT TRYING TO FORM OWN UNION

Regional Labor Board Asks Danville Concern to Attempt Mediation With Employees.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 11.—The Chicago Regional Labor Board has recommended to the Hegeler Zinc Co. of Danville, Ill., that it discontinue its attempt to organize its employees into a company union, eligibility in which requires the surrender of membership in Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union.

It also recommended that the company endeavor in good faith to negotiate for the purpose of collective bargaining with the chosen representatives of the workers. When and if these two provisions are assured by the company, the board has recommended that the workers, who have been on a strike since May 1, return.

The company was warned that if it failed to comply with the recommendations, the case will be referred for appropriate action to the National Labor Board. At a hearing here last Monday at which workers aired their grievances, L. L. Truxer, union organizer, said he intended to ask for an investigation of the working conditions at the Mathieson & Hegeler plant at La Salle, where workers also have been out since May 1.

WISCONSIN DEMOCRATS PICK CANDIDATES IN CONVENTION

Make Bid to Hold Power Gained in Last Election for First Time in Decades.

By the Associated Press.

WAUSAU, Wis., June 11.—Wisconsin's Democrats Saturday nominated candidates to make the party's bid to retain its power this year, bringing the State convention to a harmonious conclusion.

Six candidates, including Charles E. Broughton and Mrs. Gertrude Broughton, both of Sheboygan, both members of the national committee, were placed in the field in an effort to defeat Senator Robert M. La Follette and the new Progressive party.

Gov. A. C. Schmedeman was nominated for a second term, apparently with the overwhelming sentiment of the convention, but the field was left open to other candidates by a last minute decision to make no endorsements. Representing the party in power for the first time in decades, the delegates talked mainly of uniting the Democrats, extending their conquests to two U. S. Senate seats and beating the third party.

TO MOVE MINE OFFICERS FROM INDIANAPOLIS TO WASHINGTON

U. M. W. A. Heads Have Spent Much Time Since NRA Was Inaugurated.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 11.—Preparations have been made for removal from this city to Washington of international headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America.

The international executive board was authorized at the biennial convention last January to arrange for transfer of the office to Washington.

The union originally had its headquarters at Columbus, O., but shortly after the union was organized 44 years ago this city was selected for the principal office. John L. Lewis, president, and other international officers have spent most of their time in Washington since the national recovery program was inaugurated.

HOWLING MONKEYS FOUND TO LEAD COMMUNAL LIFE

They Protect Old and Crippled, "Language," Yale Scientist Says.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11.—The howling monkeys live a communal existence, Dr. C. R. Carpenter, research assistant in psychology at Yale University, reports in a monograph on this species of primates, just published.

Among the howlers, Dr. Carpenter says, no individual dominates the group, nor do they engage in physical combat among themselves for food or territory. The old and crippled are not left behind and concerted defensive action is taken against common dangers. Definite bonds exist not alone between mothers and their infants, but among all members of the group.

Dr. Carpenter spent eight months on barro Colorado Island, in the Panama Canal Zone, studying the howling monkeys day and night. He followed one group after another in the forest over long periods.

Howlers have, in effect, a language, Dr. Carpenter says. There are nine different kinds of vocalization distinctive of the species and from which it derives its name. The noise can be heard for three miles.

HARRISBURG, Ill., June 11.—Farm equipment belonging to Sigel Dabbs, Negro United Mine Worker, was destroyed by dynamite Saturday night in what police believed a minor outbreak in Southern Illinois' recurrent coal mine warfare.

About two months ago Dabbs was arrested following the shooting here of Donald Vinyard, a Progressive miner.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 11.—Despite the drought, Kansas farmers expect a winter wheat crop estimated at 80,496,000 bushels as compared with only 77,433,000 bushels last year.

The value of this year's crop is placed at between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000, based on prevailing prices and the estimated yield. Last year prices were about one-half the present figures.

ITALY'S REPUTED PLAN TO FINANCE NEXT WAR

Mussolini Would Be Sole Employer; Owner and Worker Alike on Wages.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, June 11.—Military Communism is the characterization given here to what is thought to be Mussolini's plan of financing the next eventual war. When Mussolini in his speech to the Chamber of Deputies late in May said the National Council of Defense already had decided how to finance the next war, and intimated it would not be either by taxes or by loans, the report was circulated that the plan was for the Government

1.—To take over all industrial, transport, agricultural and commercial activity.
2.—To operate these branches of endeavor.
3.—To appropriate all profits of the concerns.

4.—To pay maximum flat salaries to employer, foreman and employee alike.
5.—To issue to the aged and those unable to work vouchers entitling them to food, clothing and lodging.

Government officials several years ago announced an industrial mobilization would take place simultaneously with military mobilization the moment Italy entered a future war. The present plan of the National Council of Defense, it is said, far transcends a mere industrial mobilization.

It is estimated the Government's gross income annually during the war period would be one hundred billion lire, or about $8,500,000,000. This is well over the total amount of bonds issued in Italy to pay for its share in the world war. The net income, after the payment of salaries, is calculated at about 40,000,000,000 lire.

The government's present receipts have averaged about 18,000,000,000 lire for the last three years. The corporate state, which already controls Italy's money-making ing activities, would, it is said, furnish a comparatively easy means of making Mussolini the only employer in Italy.

The savings of the people, it is said, would be respected, although the government would have the right to borrow them. The government already borrows savings through the postal savings system and the savings banks called Casse Di Risparmio.

"She was a wreck... but not for long"

reports DR. BELOUX, noted stomach expert of Paris hospitals

If you suffer from these troubles, this case may help you!

WHY did Miss L. have these troubles? Why do YOU have them, and others like them?

Costed longer, doctors say, is a sign that your stomach juices aren't acting right.

If you can't get up mornings, it usually means your system is sluggish, your muscles tense, and so you're not sleeping properly.

If you're irritable, it is probably because poisons in your blood are attacking your nerves.

What can you do about these troubles? Well, let us see what the noted Dr. Jules Beloux did for them:

"I put Miss L. on a yeast regime at once," states Dr. Beloux. "And in thirty days, you would never think she was the same girl of a month before."

"She was entirely well again, full of energy, with a good digestion, and no more headaches."

"Nine people out of 10," Dr. Beloux states, "make their condition worse with brutal cathartics... while it is gentleness and not harshness that is needed. I am a confirmed believer in yeast."

Won't you start now to get at the real causes of your troubles by eating 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day... for at least 30 days? Right now... you can get some from a grocer, restaurant or soda fountain. The richest of all foods in the group of vitamins B<sub>1</sub> and G that we all need badly.

Let Fleischmann's Yeast stimulate your gastric juices... strengthen your intestinal muscles... soften hardened waste. Then see what a world of difference it makes in the way you feel... and look... and work! Order 3 cakes, a 3-day supply, right away!

Warning! When you buy yeast be sure you ask for FLEISCHMANN'S, because—

1 It's the only yeast that contains three important vitamins—B<sub>1</sub>, G, and C.
2 It's the yeast famous doctors advise.
3 For 55 years it has been known as the best for all purposes.

A police broadcast that four armed men were leaving Grattan and Hickory streets in a green roadster, after creating a disturbance there, was received by two detectives last night, a few minutes before they sighted the car near Chouteau and Frey avenues.

Detective George Upton sounded the siren of the police car and, as the roadster sped west, Detective Anthony Kloepper fired two shots in the air, then one at the automobile.

NEW LIGHT-GIVING SUBSTANCE FOUND BY GERMAN CHEMISTS

Discovered in Laboratory Experiments at University of Jena.

BERLIN, June 11.—A powerful light-giving substance, one gram of which will illuminate 2,642,000 gallons of liquid, was reported yesterday to have been discovered by two research workers, Dr. Glau and Dr. Petsch, in the chemical laboratories of the University of Jena.

It is called dimethyl-diadriidylum. The two chemists stumbled on their find while performing an experiment unrelated to the problem of light. They explained that one day while conducting an experiment which required complete darkness, they suddenly found the test tubes and test tubes containing their chemical preparations glowing in unexplained fashion. At first they were annoyed because the light hindered their experiment. Then they inquired into its cause, and made their discovery.

They said they were able to prove that certain substances give out light only when molecular oxygen is present, which in this case was continually renewed through a process known as reduction. Dimethyl-diadriidylum-salts, in going through reduction, were never consumed. Their power remained unchanged. The chemists say the substance is cheaper to produce than the chemical solution painted on the hands of watches and clocks to make them visible at night.

MOTORS NEED More Air THAN MEN

How OXYGEN gives life to your car... why this Gasoline Mixes Better with AIR!

DOWN INTO DAVY JONES' LOCKER, and the lives of a hundred men depend upon a steady, unflinching supply of life-giving oxygen. But the men who go down into the sea in Uncle Sam's "pigboats" are no more dependent on plenty of air than your car.

"A BRIGHT AND SUNNY DAY," you'd say, from this picture. But sundown brings coolness. Rain may come before home is reached. Air conditions change—so it's small wonder if cars perform below normal. Unless you have an all-weather gasoline.

This simple diagram shows what happens when you "Stop on the Gas."

How much GASOLINE does your gas-tank hold? Ten gallons—fifteen—twenty? Multiply that figure by several thousand and you have an idea of the amount of AIR your car uses to a single filling!

Here's the reason: Before gasoline can be burned—it must be mixed with large quantities of air. A spoonful of gasoline makes a whole tankful of "gas."

It's easy to see from this that the power you get depends on how well your gasoline mixes with air. Slow-starting, excessive knocking, loss of power may easily result from a poor-mixing gasoline.

That's why we gave Mobilgas an exclusive feature that makes it mix better with air—all kinds of air. It delivers a uniformly good fuel mixture in all kinds of weather—hot or cold, damp or dry.

Naturally, that means better performance. Full fuel value. Quick-starting—fast pick-up—dependable power! And freedom from hot-weather knock.

Try the gasoline that mixes better with air! Stop today at any Lubrite station or dealer and fill up your tank with Mobilgas.

THIS IS THE VAPOR PRESSURE TEST, and it is just one of the tests Socony-Vacuum scientists make to be sure Mobilgas does mix better with air. Mobilgas is tested three times—first at the refinery, later on in storage, and once again at the roadside pumps.

WELL SATISFIED with the way her car is performing. Hot weather or cold weather, dry days or damp—it makes no difference to all-weather Mobilgas.

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE PITCHER LOSES ONE-HIT GAME

ERRORS ENABLE GREER A. C. TO BEAT CAMPBELL BY 2-1 SCORE

It's hard luck to pitch a two-hit game and then have the opposing pitcher hurl a one-hit masterpiece, but it is even worse luck when you pitch a one-hit game and lose it. That's what happened yesterday to pitcher of the Greer A. C. and the Nicolays in the feature of the Municipal League game.

Pitcher Jensen of the Greer A. C. allowed two hits, Pitcher Campbell of the Nicolays, one hit, but Pitcher Campbell was the losing hurler of the game, as his teammates made five errors behind his one-hit contest to allow the Greers to score two runs to the one the Nicolays made.

Most of the games ended in close scores, as the teams settled down into the steady play of midseason. The St. Louis Ice Creams, in the Ban Johnson League, had to go 11 innings to defeat the Knights of Lebanon, 7-6, but the victory was needed by the St. Louis team, for it placed the two teams in a tie for the league lead. Each has now won five and lost two games.

In the Mound City League, the St. Louis Dairies had to play 12 innings before downing the Republican Indians, 13-10. In the same league, the St. Louis Cold Storage team, 2-0, Schreiner allowing the police only five hits.

The All-Weathers scored a run in the first inning of their game with the Monarchs in the City League, and that was all that was needed to give the club a 1-0 victory. Each team made five hits.

The A. Golub team in the Empire League had to go 11 innings to keep its undefeated record, the Columbia nine bowing, 6-5. It was the seventh victory for the Golubs. Ruhman pitched a two-hit game in the University City League as the powerful Hellgring-Grimm men whitewashed the Westlawn S-K squad, 9-0.

Cook pitched a one-hit game in the Hard Roads League to enable the Alton Busters to blank the West Alton team, 7-0.

BANKERS ANALYZE FEDERAL LOANS TO PRIVATE CONCERNS

Put Commitments for Such Financing at Ten Billions, With Additional Grants Possible.

HOW MARCH, 1933, CRISIS HIT BANKS

Report Says 'Weight Should Be Given Social Considerations Involved' in Government's Policy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Entry of the Federal Government into the field of large-scale money lending has opened "questions of vast importance in respect to the nation's capital and credit activities," the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers' Association reports today in an analysis of recent changes in banking.

The report pointed out "there will doubtless long be active differences of opinion" on whether the Government's role of money lender during the depression was justified, but it added that, aside from questions of finance and economic policy, due weight should be given to the social considerations involved.

"We believe," the report concluded, "that these are questions of national public policy calling for thorough and unselfish consideration, with the single motive of arriving at conclusions solely to the common welfare."

Ten Billions Provided.

According to the report, the Federal Government is committed to financing with public funds private financial requirements totaling upwards of $10,000,000,000, with additional grants possible.

While private financing, averaging more than $5,000,000,000 a year in 1932 and 1933, the Treasury stepped into the capital market on a scale unequalled since the war.

Treasury financing last year, the report set forth, aggregated $10,400,000,000, of which $7,400,000,000 was for refunding and $3,000,000,000 an addition to the national debt. During the first four months of this year, $2,200,000,000 of new debt was created by the Government's financing.

The report attributes the failure of private capital markets to function in the ordinary way chiefly to restrictions imposed by the Securities Act of 1933 and uncertainty over the gold value of the dollar.

What Happened to Banks.

Summarizing recent changes in the American banking structure, the report notes the following points:

The banking crisis of March, 1933, reduced the number of banks by nearly 4000, or about 20 per cent, and total banking resources dropped nearly $5,500,000,000, or about 10 per cent.

From a peak of 30,800 in 1921, the nation's banks were reduced more than 50 per cent to a total of 14,600 units in June, 1933. Total resources decreased from $74,000,000,000 in 1930 to $51,300,000,000 in June, 1933, or 31 per cent.

The new banking structure shows a material gain in the influence of the Federal Reserve System in the commercial banking field, along with extensions of Federal Government participation in banking and money lending.

RFC Assistance.

Several thousand banks, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, at the end of March owed to the Government $637,000,000.

The RFC made agreements to extend capital aid in excess of $1,000,000,000 to more than 6400 banks.

The Federal Government created and participated in the capitalization and operation of a large number of agencies for extending various kinds of short, intermediate and long-term loans to all types of corporate and individual borrowers.

"The facts we have been able to gather," the report continues, "indicate that all told there appear to be about 3800 lending associations and corporations of this type and that their aggregate authorized capital from Government resources is about $1,500,000,000. Official statements enumerate borrowers from them aggregating about 1,000,000 persons. The amount of loans they are reported to have made is in excess of $3,000,000,000. Various of these agencies are empowered to issue Government-guaranteed bonds to an indicated total of more than $5,000,000,000.

"In addition, the RFC had direct loans of about $700,000,000 outstanding to various classes of corporate interests. In the deposit field, the Federal Government is operating the postal savings system, under which about 8000 postoffices have been designated as depositories, a gain of more than 1000 in four years with deposits rising above $1,200,000,000 and depositors above 2,300,000."

U. S. Commerce Chamber Urges Limit on President's Power To Shift Funds for Relief

In Letter to Senator Glass, Harriman Says Authority Intended for Roosevelt Threatens to Upset Budget Balancing Program.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Urging the "imperative necessity" of balancing the budget, organized business has asked the Senate to limit President Roosevelt's authority to shift funds in the pending $1,172,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

The plea was made by Henry L. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in a letter to Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Harriman's contention was that allowing transfers of Reconstruction Finance Corporation money to relief and public works purposes might upset the program for balancing the budget in 1936, since expenditures would then be made outright instead of in reimbursable loans.

"The deficiency appropriation bill recently passed by the House and now before your committee," Harriman wrote, "makes possible expenditures much in excess of those requested in the budget. Any excess of this kind will operate against a balance of the budget in 1936, even if taxes are somewhat increased."

Feasibilities of Bill.

"It is true that the definite appropriations carried in the House bill for emergency purposes ($1,172,000,000) coincide with the budget recommendations. In addition to this amount, however, the bill authorizes discretionary transfer of all unobligated RFC funds (whether derived from borrowing, sale of assets, or reimbursements) to the Emergency Relief Administration and to the Public Works Administration."

"The exact amount of additional funds which might thus be expendable for these purposes cannot be definitely stated, but it is estimated at a minimum of 15 billion and a maximum of about three billion. While new expenditures authorized by the bill for public improvements are limited to $500,000,000, there is no limitation placed on the amount which can be used for relief.

Reimbursable Loans So Far.

"Up to the present much of the RFC funds have been used for the purpose of making reimbursable loans. The Government has consequently been accumulating assets which sooner or later can be liquidated and the money received turned into the Treasury.

"It has been estimated that after the debt increase of 9.3 billions in 1934 and 1935, as contemplated in the budget message, the Government would have about five billion of assets which could be realized upon to discharge debt.

"But under the bill the purposes for which RFC funds may be used is greatly extended. These contemplate non-reimbursable expenditures with no possible recompense to the Treasury. It must also be recalled that, in addition to the large increase in the public debt, the Government has acquired contingent liabilities to about six billion dollars."

VICE-CONSUL MISSING, JAPAN SENDS WARSHIPS TO NANKING

Officials Suspect Murder, Think China Is Not Pressing Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, June 11.—A Japanese destroyer steamed toward Nanking today and the cruiser Thumama, at anchor here, was under orders to proceed to that city tomorrow.

Japanese officials indicated the warships were going "to assist in the search" for Eimei Kuramoto, Japanese Vice Consul at Nanking, who disappeared three days ago.

Dispatches from Nanking said no trace had been found of Kuramoto, last seen Friday night when he went to the railroad station with Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese Minister, who left for Shanghai.

Japanese officials indicated a belief that Kuramoto had been murdered and that the Chinese were "quite content to allow the case to go unsolved." Japan has demanded that China investigate the disappearance without further delay. Japanese residents of China at a mass meeting adopted a resolution urging that Japan force China to clean up the case or pay indemnity.

ALASKA GETS COMICS AGAIN

Delayed by Strike, They Reach Seward Finally.

By the Associated Press.

SEWARD, Alaska, June 11.—Carrying newspaper and colored comic sections for four weeks back, the steamer North Wind arrived today with the first newspapers from the States that have been received for a month. The Pacific Coast longshoremen's strike prevented shipments of second, third and fourth class mail for a month. The comic sections of Alaskan newspapers are printed in Washington.

The Alaska railroad held a train here to rush the mail to interior points.

TWA LOSES SUIT TO ENJOIN MAIL CONTRACT ANNULLMENT

U. S. Court of Appeals Directs Dismissal, Holding Farley Was Not Properly Served.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today directed the dismissal of the suit of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., to enjoin Postmaster-General James A. Farley from enforcing an annulment order against a TWA airmail contract.

Federal Judge Knox, after listening to argument, had ruled that since the Government could not be sued without its consent, the TWA plea for an injunction had no standing. He directed that the suit "be in all respects dismissed."

The Court of Appeals ruled, first, that Postmaster Farley had never been properly served with the complaint in the action, or with moving papers, as the suit had been brought in the Southern District of New York. No proper substituted service had been made upon the Postmaster-General, who was in Washington at the time, Judge Knox held.

The court further ruled that the United States was a proper party to the action in which only Farley and Postmaster John J. Kiely of New York were named defendants.

In the decision, Presiding Judge Martin T. Manton wrote: "The bill should have been dismissed for want of jurisdiction. The decree should therefore be reversed and a decree entered dismissing the bill for lack of jurisdiction."

Earthquake, Probably in East Indies

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An earthquake of moderate intensity Saturday, probably in the East Indies, was reported yesterday by Georgetown University authorities. The shock was estimated to have centered 8000 miles west of Washington.

CAVALRY CHARGES FRENCH RIOTERS; 100 PERSONS HURT

Anti-Government and Anti-Fascist Outbreaks Put Down Over Week-end in Many Provinces.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 11.—A violent outbreak of anti-Government and anti-Fascist disorders occurred in several French provinces over the week-end. One hundred persons were injured.

Cavalry at Grenoble and Cambrai used the butts of their carbines charging gatherings of Communists and Socialists.

The Government used troops and gendarmes freely to restore quiet.

Other anti-Fascist demonstrations were held at Denain and Valenciennes, where clashes occurred between crowds and the police. Even in Paris Communist and Royalist newspaper vendors came into collision.

More than 1000 Socialists and Communists barricaded themselves in the streets of Grenoble. At least 50 persons were injured. Stones were thrown before the police finally gained the upper hand. A church was used by the demonstrators as a citadel.

Communists attempted to stop a speech by Philippe Henriot, a member of the Chamber of Deputies whose scheduled addresses have caused similar riots in other cities.

At Cambrai Leftists sought to break up a parade of the veterans' organization Croix de Feu (Cross of Fire). One marcher was seriously injured.

A warning was issued by the Government that it would take measures to break up such disorders.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA AND BELGIUM JOIN DEBT DEFAULTERS

Ministers Leave Notes
With State Department
Nations Will Not Meet
June 15 Payments.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Belgium and Czechoslovakia have officially informed the United States they intend to default on their war debt installments due June 15.

It was learned today that Paul May, the Belgian Ambassador, left a note with Undersecretary of State Phillips late Saturday that Belgium would default for the fourth time. Defaulted installments from Belgium amount to $11,309,453. An additional $7,159,454 becomes due June 15, making a total of $18,468,907 on which Belgium will default.

Ferdinand Veverka, Czechoslovakia Minister, called on the State Department today and left a note saying his Government would not be able to make a payment of $4,535,711 due June 15. Of that amount $2,852,898 is past due and $1,682,813 becomes due this week.

Czechoslovakia in the past has been a token payer and defaults this week for the first time. In taking the step it followed the lead of Great Britain.

PHILIP SNOWDEN DECLARES HE IS RETURNING TO POLITICS

Former Chancellor of Exchequer Attacks MacDonald as 'Mere Tory Instrument.'

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 11.—Notice that "I am returning to politics" was given today by Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and a leading figure in the Labor party, in the Daily Mail.

Snowden attacked Premier MacDonald as "a man whose vanity, weakness and incoherence will be the nation's undoing if he continues in office."

MacDonald, he said, "is a mere Tory instrument." Snowden charged the Government's domestic and foreign affairs were muddled and "there is no unity, no definite purpose, no intelligible ideal in anything it attempts."

"We have heard that story a dozen times before," a Government spokesman said, when asked about Snowden's intention to make a comeback.

U. S. SOUND FINANCIALLY, BARON DE ROTHSCHILD SAYS

French Senator-Banker Terms Dollars and Government Bonds
Good Investments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Baron Maurice de Rothschild, Senator of France and a member of the banking family, said on a visit here yesterday that "anyone who has money would be wise to invest it in United States dollars or Government bonds."

That is my opinion of the solidarity of your country."

Interviewed during a visit to the World's Fair, he said: "America is the most financially sound country of all. This is true despite the depression. I do not say it because I like America or because I have enjoyed myself here."

He explained he thought the United States a good investment because the natural resources are the same, industrial facilities are still available and America is safe from the turmoil which constantly threatens Europe.

"War or revolution will not strike America," he said, "but in Europe, no matter how secure we may become financially, the forces of war or revolution are seething. We fear that suddenly enemy planes might soar over our cities, spitting devastation. American need have no fear of that. America is remote from international strife."

Sir Hubert Wilkins' New Plans.

By the Associated Press.

PLYMOUTH, England, June 11.—Sir Hubert Wilkins, arriving today from New York, announced he would make a submarine exploration trip in 1935 to Spitzbergen and the Bering Straits. He will be accompanied by Lady Wilkins. He said 1500 miles of the trip would be made under Arctic ice.

ARGENTINE WHEAT ACTION ALARMS OTHER COUNTRIES

Scrapping of International Treaty Expected to Result in Widespread Dumping of Grain.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 11.—Anxiety of other big wheat exporters over the attitude of the Argentine to the London wheat pact turned into open alarm today as evidence accumulated that Argentina, to all intents and purposes, has thrown the pact overboard.

Under the agreement signed in August last year Argentina, with Canada, Australia and the United States, agreed to keep wheat exports in the crop year ending July 31 next to a definite limit. In the case of Argentina it was 110,000,000 bushels.

Argentina now has actually exceeded this limit by at least 4,000,000 bushels, experts say, and on top of this, considerable ocean freight has been booked and forward wheat sales made for June and July.

Knowing some weeks ago that Argentina would very likely exceed her quota, representatives of the other principal exporters last month offered her a "loan" of about 40,000,000 bushels from their own export quotas. The Buenos Aires Government has not replied to this.

Others Talk of Dumping.

Consequently, there was talk of a "wheat war" today, with Argentina's competitors, including Canada, dumping stocks on the market.

The Australians are particularly bitter over the Argentine marketing methods. Always strongly opposed to suggestions of production restriction or restriction of exports, which are much the same thing, the Australians entered into the agreement with the utmost reluctance.

Wheat experts understood that Argentina would claim one-third of the total world markets as its quota, as the price of keeping the agreement in existence. This report could not be confirmed.

Share News About One-Fifth.

Under the terms of the wheat pact for the present crop year Argentina would be permitted to export one-fifth of the total world supply.

'SWEETHEARTS' OPENS
IN THE PARK TONIGHT

Old Favorite Second Offering of Season With Charlotte Lansing, Prima Donna.

Municipal Opera in Forest Park begins its second week of the season tonight with the Victor Herbert operetta, "Sweethearts." Charlotte Lansing, prima donna soprano, will make her first appearance of the season.

With 7400 persons at last night's performance of "Sweet Adeline," the total attendance for the first week was 50,000. Saturday night's performance was rained out. Opera officials said the attendance compared favorably with six-night weeks in previous years. Rain checks from Saturday night must be used this week.

"Sweethearts," an old favorite with Municipal Opera audiences, has had three previous productions there, the last in 1930. This week's production will be more elaborate in keeping with present policy, with sets by Watson Barratt and costumes by Ernest R. Schrappe.

Others in the cast include Leonard Ceely, Edith King, Helen Eck, Berta Doon, Marie Starnier, Barrett Parker, Robert Lee Allen, John Epally, Leota Lane, Frank Gaby and Barre Hill.

Special groups at this week's performances are as follows: Tomorrow night, St. Louis Medical Society, Art Extension Group of Illinois University, and a group from Bellevue; Thursday night,
Southern Illinois group and the Merchant's Exchange; Friday night, Owens-Illinois Glass Co., Real Estate Exchange, and Young Men's Division of the Chamber of Commerce; Saturday night, Wabash Railroad employees, with groups coming from Decatur, Ill., and Moberly, Mo.

Allan Jones, a favorite for two seasons at the Municipal Opera, arrived last week to begin rehearsals for "Cyrano de Bergerac," next week's production, in which Leonard Ceely will have the part of Cyrano. Gladys Baxter will be cast as Roxane. Jones is scheduled to appear in four or five consecutive productions.

Why didn't I insist on the NORGE
? I KNEW that the Rollator was the most sensible refrigerating mechanism. I knew it had less friction... would cost less money to own and operate. I knew that the savings could amount to as much as $11 a month... $132 a year—or $3000 or $4000 in the life of the Norge. I knew, too that 100,793 women helped design its convenience features. I wish I had insist-

May be it's not too late for you to save with Norge. Get the facts today from your neigh-

German Finance in Trouble.
Prisons in the Air.
New Way to Travel.
Mr. Baer and Mr. Carnera.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

FROM the worldwide point of view the serious news is suspension of payments by the German Reichsbank, which means that Germany stops paying even private debts. It is not merely the usual default on international debts. Wise Paris "fears the worst" usually. In this instance, that Germany's financial condition is far worse than the world knows, worse than Germany realizes or cares to admit. The substantial Paris Temps says of the Reichsbank payment suspension "it is needless to insist on the gravity of this measure. It demonstrates the desperate situation in which Germany finds itself."

Mayor LaGuardia of New York, asks Washington for seventeen millions to build a criminal courts skyscraper, with a prison on the upper floors. Such prisons in the air are in use in several modern cities, Los Angeles and Miami, among others.

So-called civilization used to put graveyards on hill tops, that the dead might enjoy a fine view, incidentally allowing disease germs to run down hill into open wells. Old prisons were in holes and dungeons underground.

The skyscraper prison is based on common sense. Skyscraper prisoners cannot get out, since a drop of 15 or more stories would be involved, and lynching mobs cannot get in. Our kind of civilization demands many precautions.

Big New York City's credit is fairly good, in spite of loose talk about bond interest default. German and other cities will read with emotion that New York's Controller McDonald borrows millions at one per cent interest.

This is due partly to the fact that banks and financial houses are "choked with cash" and very cautious about lending it.

The latest gold rush is in and near Grand Forks, British Columbia. Prospectors have staked out 5000 acres of claims, some of them on city golf links.

Ben Smith of New York, who specializes in gold, and makes it pay, says Americans should investigate gold mining possibilities in Canada and British Columbia. They might profitably investigate in Russia, also, but Russia will not let you have the gold, if you find it.

Smith's traveling methods show what flying machines can do. He recently started around the world with his family by floating steamer. On the way, in Java, he thought he would like to see the Grand National Steeplechase, and flew back to England, from that point, saw the race and flew back to join his family and their ship at an African port. Landing in New York, he flew to California, took another plane to British Columbia, flew back via San Francisco to New York. He thus saves months of old fashioned "high speed travel."

Next Thursday occurs the Carnera-Baer prize fight, and there is much interest. Carnera, Italian, is well described as the "man-mountain," sometimes as the "fighting mastodon."

For box office reasons, Mr. Baer is advertised as a "Jewish heavy-weight prize fighter," although not on the soundest ethnological basis. According to the "New Yorker," Baer's mother was Scotch-Irish, ever six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds. His father was half Jewish only. The son grew strong, slaughtering and chopping up calves and sheep for his father.

If he wins, Scotchmen and Irishmen will claim the victory for the mother's fighting blood. His Jewish admirers will say that the Jewish quarter of his brain did the thinking and won the fight.

It is to be remembered, however, that if Spinoza, Disraeli, the original Rothschild and Mamlonides got in the ring with Carnera, all at the same time, Carnera with leisurely ease could knock out all four, which proves that being heavy-weight champion does not amount to much, also, lest the ambitious young forget, it may once more be stated that if Carnera, Baer and any other two human fighters that ever lived, entered a ring with a full grown gorilla, and made the gorilla angry, the four would not last two minutes. The gorilla, however, being a decent animal, would not fight unless offended, and other gorillas, more respectable than humans, would not want to see the fight, much less give coconuts to see it.

A number of rich Americans, Horace Dodge of Detroit, the latest, are reported to be taking their children to Europe, usually to England, where they will be safe from kidnapers.

It is a fact that children in England are safe from kidnapers.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

ROYCE was smoking one of Frankau's excellent Coronas, his feet on the antique velvet of an ottoman, his eyes looking at a Goya, but not seeing the picture. Half an hour before he had come up to Frankau's apartment, he had told his chief that positively he had a lead. Positively. He didn't have a lead, he was at sea again, a broader, bigger sea than he had ever been in before. There was one reason why he had come to Frankau's. To get a little peace of mind, and forget this case for an hour.

His eyes turned from the Goya to the open French doors which gave out onto the terrace. The scent of verbenas came from the garden and drifted into the room, verbenas and mingled with it candied tuft, and sweet William and alyssum, for Frankau's roof in the summers was an old-fashioned garden.

Royce was reminded of his mother's garden as he breathed in the perfume. She always had verbenas in her garden in Maine. Verbenas and tall hollyhocks, pink and yellow and lavender in the sun. He wished his wife liked flowers, but she didn't, so they couldn't move to the suburbs. He would have enjoyed putting around a garden on his days off, but they lived in town, so she could be in the swing of affairs.

"What about this kidnapping case you're on?" Frankau asked, after they had been silent a long time. "Any luck?"

Royce shook his head. He was admitting to Frankau what he hadn't dared admit to his own chief—his complete defeat. The best lead he had had the whole time—that dress, brown and green, that Trudy Vernon had dug up for him. Where did it get him? No place.

Three days wasted already looking up the women who had bought models like it. Three days and not a nibble of luck. The Eleanor Robbins Company had made 3000 of those dresses.

Three thousand women in America wearing them, or would be wearing them when they were all sold through department stores and dress shops.

Here it was July 17th, almost the 18th, for there was only half an hour left of the night. On July 20th, unless something happened, the whole case was going to blow up.

All the undercover work for nothing, all this planning and scheming to keep secret the operations of the kidnapping gang, so that the department could function more efficiently.

Politics would start after the blow-off, and heads would begin to be chopped off. Maybe his head, maybe his chief's. Royce knew the whole story of what was to come. He had been through the same thing before, but there wasn't anything he could do about it.

"I'll have to go pretty soon," he muttered. He didn't want to go. He was always reluctant to leave Frankau's comfortable penthouse. Frankau didn't urge him to stay. He never urged Royce to do anything, but tonight he hoped he wouldn't stay too long. Frankau was waiting in the library. Royce had interrupted them with his ring.

A clock in the room chimed midnight softly, 12 musical notes, pleasant to Royce. He liked the sound of the chimes, their subdued tone.

"I made $300 on that stock you told me about," he said suddenly. He remembered he hadn't spoken to Frankau about it before. "That's enough profit for me. I'll do to buy the wife a winter coat."

"Good. You've got a nice market sense. Wish I had it, too! I stayed in too long and come out on the short end." He hadn't, but it would make Royce feel good to think that he hadn't made any profit.

"But you told me, man, to wait for only five points!"

"I know, that was right, but I'm greedy."

Royce laughed and his spirits rose. That was the way with these rich guys, too greedy, waited too long. "Well, I am going this time. Say, I understand that you're stepping around now with a girl who works at Dana's store."

"News, travels swiftly. Royce. Well, it's true. I met her at Atlantic City. A charming girl, but I don't imagine you'd know her."

"It just happens that I do. She is a nice girl. You're not serious about her, are you?" Royce was hunting for his hat. He found it before Frankau replied.

"Would you disapprove of me terribly if I were serious about her?"

"But she's so young—only a kid."

"Yes, she is young. Sorry you feel you have to go. I was going to suggest we go into the garden and sit there awhile."

The Price Paid By Women For Their Rights

The Pioneers Into Masculine Fields of Work Had No Easy Road Ahead.

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1934.)

"HAZE her!" said the Dean. And haze her they did. Be a woman doctor, would she? Go through medical college with men... sit with men in classes while male professors talked about Having Babies... work with men over pickled male bodies? She's made up her mind to do all this at a time when a decent girl wasn't even supposed to know how a man washes, much less discuss or dissect his tabooed flesh. Very well then—let her get what she deserved! Give her the works!

Up from the sweet, walled wilderness of the East came a young girl, Nellie McKnight, had come, to study medicine. But a woman doctor in the early 90's—impossible!

Ladies were supposed to be Ladies in the good old 80's and 90's, and Nothing Else But. Even the ravest material in who were fighting for Equal Rights still recognized a certain decency.

There was May Sutton, Ruddy with her outlandish yuen for professional tennis... but, at least, she entered the court properly arrayed in long skirt, high-collared and 18-inch sailor pinned tight to a four-inch wad of pompadour.

Yes—whatever crazy notions might be circulating above her ears, the New Woman of '92 still garbed herself as a lady at all points south thereof. As evidence, read a magazine description of a snappy swimming suit. Is it accurate? Is it? Ye Authoresses were here!

"Choose a suit of dark blue, or better still, of navy blue. In dressing for the water this tasteful woman first dons a thin undervest, and over that an old pair of corsets from which the bones have been removed. Then she puts on a pair of long black yarn stockings, for woolen stockings look much better when wet than cotton ones. Elastic about the knees keeps the stockings in place. Then comes the under part of the black bathing suit, the waist and knee trousers being in one piece. The waist has a sailor collar and the sleeves reach nearly to the elbows. The short skirt would extend to shoe tops if shoes were worn; this is buttoned to the waist and a belt completes the costume."

Were they funning? They were not! Behind those cute costumes and coy conventional rose and Frejude as cruel as any that ever slashed off a cavewife's nose, or doomed an imprudent maiden to slow death by torture of ants. And God help the girl who defied them!

Nellie McKnight did—and paid a price for her doctor's degree that would have made many a strong man duck for cover. For a Woman Doctor had no place at all in that world! Nor should she achieve any, if the men could help it!

A few rare women had preceded this, courageous youngster. Things had happened to those women—credible things. The Board of Regents had bitterly fought their registration; had given way only when they could find no legal loophole to refuse. Then they had had to battle against the massed males of the faculty and student body.

"Haze her!" said the Dean when the first female pioneer, Lucy Wanzer, entered in 1873. "It's the old story; women want to get in everywhere. We have to accept this woman student, as she is the best of us. The law has decided in her favor, but you can make it so uncomfortable that she cannot stay. We will get rid of her in short order! Of course she will complain, but we will say we are very sorry but we cannot lecture to two classes. With just one woman, we will make short work of it."

"Haze her!" said the Dean. And haze her they did! Shameful incidents to repeat, impossible to reprint in a newspaper, but they are as much a part of American history as Indian tortures or World War atrocities, and even more significant.

Yes, Lucy Wanzer had paid a ghastly price for her right to serve humanity. And the war was still on when Nellie McKnight came along.

Sneers, guffaws, a constant battery of obscene stories greeted her. She was made the target for public fustage by the lecturing doctors. Then came her first assignment to the dissecting room. She was to work with a man. Masculine eyes, in a wall, turned toward her... jeering... speculating.

It was her test. Could she go on? Shamed, sick—the room blurred through stinging tears. Then, suddenly, shining through the darkness, came the soothing touch of Resinol.

Even in persistent cases where pain is sore and tender—Resinol follows the soothing touch of Resinol.

En Route to Hollywood

Walter Winchell Talking to Himself

WONDER what his name is? minds me of a note that came from the three Radio Rogues, who recently played in Peoria, Ill. The night before they opened there, they went to see the last performance of the preceding bill... On it was an act called "Nebraska Prison Revue"... That act opened with screaming sirens and police whistles—and chains rattling plus the sound of the lock-step... The master of ceremonies then enters and announces that the members of his cast spent 100 years in various jails, collectively, of course. His star is a murderer, he adds. He served 25 years... Then a burly man enters and takes bows while the audience responds with robust applause! One of the three Radio Rogues asked the owner of the act if it was all on the level—no humbug? To which the man retorted: "How dare you! Every man is a legitimate victim." In fewer words, vaudeville today is a great uplift to the American boy—and if you asked most of the layoffs—a great menace to the legitimate vaudeville performer.

Add things I'd like to know: What Jimmy Durante looked like when he was a baby?... Why reform schools never do?... Who Max Baer thinks he is?... If hit-and-run drivers secretly suffer as much as they should?... How mailmen would look in snappy uniforms—and why they have to pay for their working clothes?... What makes a person go to bed with a lit cigarette?... Shoot off "unloaded" revolvers?... And try to beat trains to crossings?... Why there's no town called George Washington?... If it is going to be colder tonight, and where tomorrow's column is coming from?... Why the studios will hire Leon Gordon as a writer and not as an actor?... although he's played leads in several hundred plays—and if Mary Pickford ever saved her curfew?... Why laughing and crying sound the same in moon pitchers?... What became of Miss America of 1924?... Who is Peg Joyce's actual heart?... What a cult leader does when he predicts the world will come to an end on a certain day—and it doesn't?... And why it rains the day after you wash the car?

Speaking of Mr. Dillinger re-ness, came that vision which had first sent her on her way... the vision of suffering... a gallant old grandmother, dying needlessly the tortures of typhoid. Aunt Mary—that brave pioneer—mother who had followed her man to make a home on the fierce Dakota prairie—strangling to death in the paroxysms of asthma. Women screaming, sobbing in the awful travail of birth, for which there was as yet no mitigation.

Human suffering—it was calling her. It was challenging her. Could she go on? Take what those jeering men gave?

She could! SHE DID! Today men, women, little children, bless Helen M. Doyle, M. D., because despite the stinging tears, the blistering blushes—she set her jaw, seized the scalpel and WENT ON!

WHAT PRICE WOMEN'S RIGHTS WHEN THERE WEREN'T ANY?

Puddle Muddle Plans to Hold A Party for Rip

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE Puddle Muddlers all had a most refreshing sleep and one they badly needed. When they awoke they felt rested once more.

"It was a lucky thing the wind died down when it did," said Willy Nilly, "for things are so dry after the long time we have had without rain."

"Let's have a party for Rip," quipped Mrs. Quacko Duck. "We need some fun after all we've been through."

Willy Nilly knew that there was more work for him to do than that, but certainly now was not the time to do it—not when a party was being suggested in Rip's honor.

"Why not have the party at the pond?" quipped Mr. Quacko Duck. "It will be so nice and cool there. We've had enough of fire and heat."

"That's so," they all quacked and crowded and barked and growled in agreement.

"What about Honey Bear?" suggested Rip.

"She's probably quite happy in the cave with the cubs or she would have come out," said Willy Nilly. "I'll leave a message on the door in bear footprint sign language that we're at the pond. She'll understand."

So they all trooped off. Honey Bear had been having a wonderful sleep, and so had the cubs, but later in the day she was sure she noticed a strange smell of burning once more.

"We can't be having another fire," she thought. But the smell disturbed her and she awoke again.

ALWAYS seemed to us that the place to look at Whistler's mother was in the Louvre. She is back again in Paris after a triumphant tour of her home land. In an armored truck. She's the most important lady in the Louvre. And that takes in Moaning Lizzie and the look-out. We never did see anything so marvelous in Mona Lisa and her rubberized grin. But, Jimmie's ma is a real lady. She seems to represent all old ladies. And what better tribute could we give her than to run her around our peaceful land in an armored truck? Time to do something about it when old folks ain't even safe in paintings. No more delicate compliment could be paid to motherhood than a trip through the old neighborhood in a rose-bedecked and bullet-proof chariot. A look at the painting proves that even a genius drops a technical stitch once in a while. The pose is superb. The lined face is the last word in realism. The sad hands are folded in her lap. But how come that Whistler left off the bullet-proof vest? (Copyright, 1934.)

Inflation Under Legi Is Estimated Up to 500,000,000 — L Fails to Strike Profits Tax.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Senate today passed the silver purchase bill last night by a vote of 55 to 25. No amendment was accepted. The Senate rejected an amendment providing for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. The vote was 51 to 31. Earlier in the session a bill was defeated, 64 to 24. The silver bill authorized Treasury to buy silver and silver certificates for a total of $100,000,000 of the nation's money is backed by gold. The bill goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments. These are expected to be approved without the usual conference. Party Lineup on Bill. Eight Republicans lined up for the silver bill, with 19 Democrats and 34 Democrats voting against it. The entire silver bloc voted for the bill, even those Senators who had sought to amend it. Ground it would not change the status of silver as money. The six Democratic Senators who voted against the bill were: Glass, Borah, McNamara, Capper, and two others. The bill was a monetary measure to go to the Senate under the "new deal" without debate. Estimates on Inflation. Estimates of possible inflation under this proposal ranged from about $150,000,000, depending on how far the President exercises power conferred upon him. Silver bought by the Treasury would be paid for at the price, but valued in the market at $1.29 an ounce, the stocks at $1.29 an ounce, the story price. Thus, if the silver chased cost $500,000,000, the difference with a face value of $100,000,000 would have to be paid. This, however, would use up part of the new silver, and an ounce would be required for dollar certificate under the price. The President, if he could use all the silver as a for silver certificate issuance. Much of the debate, and the efforts to liberalize the bill, were about this plan of value silver at $1.29 an ounce. Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma offered an amendment to provide valuation in the Treasury market price, which he said would make silver a "primary money" proposal was rejected, 65 to 15. Tax on Profits Retained. McCarran (Dem.) of Nevada proposed an amendment to make that silver certificates were against the silver purchased. Pittman (Dem.) of Nevada charge of the bill, contended it already made that matter, but finally accepted a modification of McCarran's proposal. An attempt by Long (Dem.) of Louisiana to strike out of the proposed 50 per cent of profits from speculation in silver was rejected, 53 to 29, after the Senate had modified the bill's motion to exclude speculation. Earlier an amendment to authorize the free and unlimited sale of silver had been by a vote of 59 to 18. During debate on the amendment, Adams (Dem.) of Colorado to silver colleague that President Roosevelt would use the bill conferred upon him by the Senate. "Is there anything in this requires the purchase of silver?" McCarran asked him. "The Senator heard the President," continued on Page 4, Column 1.
